DALADIER WARNING JOLTS ITALY

Urges $20,000 Loan For City Payroll

AUDITOR WILL ASK COUNCIL TO TAKE ACTION

Kelley to Seek Authority to Issue Short Term Notes at Meeting Tomorrow.

'PROTECTIVE MEASURE'

Says General Fund Balance $2,000, Needs $15,000 for Two Muny Paydays.

When city council meets in its last regular session of 1938 tomorrow night, it will be asked to authorize City Auditor Paul L. Kelley to borrow $20,000 to meet the municipal payroll for the balance of the year.

An ordinance authorizing the issuance of $20,000 in short term notes in anticipation of the current personal and intangible tax collection which will not close until late this month will be presented to council.

Seeks Tax Advance.

Kelley said that the legislation had been drafted as a "protective measure" in the event that an advance draft sought from County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe last week fails to provide the necessary funds.

It is expected that $14,000 will be obtained in advance on the personal tax collection but the advance on the intangibles is problematical.

Kelley added that the money is being sought to bolster the city's general fund which today showed a balance slightly over $2,000.

2 Paydays Due.

The general fund must meet two municipal paydays before the end of the year which total approximately $15,000, Kelley said.

In addition to the wages, Kelley said there are $6,000 in outstanding bills besides another $5,000 in debts which will be incurred before Dec. 31.

On this basis, he said that bills would total $26,000 with only $22,000 in sight, even if the city issues the notes.

The October and November sales tax settlements which are due and several minor revenues may keep the city out of the "red" at the end of the year, the auditor added.

City council tomorrow night also will be asked to approve the sale of $19,350 in street assessment bonds to the Citizens National Bank and Trust company.

GOES TO WORK

Jimmy Roosevelt Takes Desk at Hollywood Studio.

HOLLYWOOD —(AP)— Smiling, baldish Jimmy Roosevelt, 30-year-old former secretary to his father, the president, reported for work today as Movie Maker Sam Goldwyn's new hired hand and got his first assignment:

A press conference.

This was like being a member of the White House secretariat again for Jimmy, but the salary was several times better than the $10,000 a year he earned in Washington.

The stipend was not announced, yet Hollywoodians guessed it would compare favorably with the $27,000 to $49,000 annually that Roosevelt made in the insurance business before he joined his father's staff.

As foreign secretary

Dapper Anthony Eden, Britain's ex-foreign secretary, has sailed for the United States for his first visit and Americans await his arrival, Dec. 8, with great interest. Eden, who is said to be determined to become England's next prime minister, will study working conditions and housing projects in the United States. He will address the Congress of American Industry in New York, Dec. 9. Undying foe of dictators, Eden resigned as foreign secretary in a split with Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain last March over Britain's attitude toward Italian and German colonial ambitions.

SET UP COUNTY SOILS PROGRAM

100 Township Committeemen Meet Here Today to Lay Groundwork for 1939.

Ground work for the 1939 federal soils conservation program in Richland county was laid today at a meeting of more than 100 township committeemen who heard details of the program outlined at a meeting at the courthouse.

The new federal farm program, which provides cash benefits for the improvement of soil and retirement of land from production, will go into operation soon after the first of the year.

Township committeemen's work in the measurement of farms, listing of crops and the extent to which farmers comply with the program requirements, were explained by Dean D. Deeds, Columbus, federal conservation official; Guy Taylor, county chairman, and George B. Ganyard, county extension agent. The meeting was to continue throughout the day.

The program affects wheat, corn and potatoes in Richland county, providing for benefit payments to farmers who comply with the requirements and use fertilizer and soil-building crops to improve their farms.

Checks for a part of the 1,600 county farmers who participated in the program this year probably will be distributed sometime in December, committeemen said. Others will be ready for mailing after the first of the year.

YOUTHS WAKEN SLEEPER, JAILED

Four Fined $5 and Costs Each on Disorderly Conduct Charges.

Pleading guilty before Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch in municipal court this morning to a charge of disorderly conduct and intoxication, four Springmill youths were fined $5 and costs each.

They were Peter Rusiska, C. B. Nickerson, Robert L. Rice and W. O. Uhl, who were arrested by police on North Main street today. The affidavit was signed by Fred S. Lewis, 252½ North Main street, who testified that he was awakened by the four who were fighting in front of his home. He said that when he asked them to "move along" they became abusive.

SANTA STALLED

St. Nick Gets On Truck And It Runs Out Of Gas.

WAYNESBURG, Pa.—(AP)—Santa Claus traded his reindeer for a truck in a Christmas parade here—to his sorrow.

The truck ran out of gasoline and left Santa stranded. He arrived late at the courthouse to jot down kiddies' Yuletide requests and add one of his own—for more gas next time.

Just Two Weeks From Today--Christmas Ball

And In Just Two Days You'll Know Details of Gala Show Planned By Muster-Cheers To Fill Baskets For Needy.

Two weeks from tonight is the date for what? If you don't know the answer, you get 50 points off on your I. Q. test, for everybody who can and does read, knows the answer.

It's the biggest event on the Mansfield calendar—the annual show of the Three Muster-Cheers. It's the first Christmas ball and fifth annual midnight show combined, and will be staged at the Coliseum Monday, Dec. 19.

The show? Wait until you hear about it. There'll be an announcement in Wednesday's News-Journal that will send you scurrying to buy your tickets.

A Few Hints.

Ever see the Lambeth Walk? . . . Ever hear "Day After Day," which is just breaking over Broadway and the air lanes? . . . And don't you think it would be more interesting to see Santa Claus driving a team of six pretty girls than the usual six reindeers? Ever hear. . . but why go on, when we're not supposed to announce the show until Wednesday?

We hope you'll like the plans for the show this year because we want to sell a lot of tickets—2,000 maybe—because the number of Christmas baskets given out to needy and deserving families this year will depend upon the number of tickets we sell.

Mr. and Mr. Louis Ott, jr., co-chairmen of the ticket committee, have literally "plastered" the town with tickets.

CHECKS DEATHS

NEWARK — (AP) — Coroner George W. Sapp said today he was investigating the deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Titus R. Jones, an aged couple found dead in the bedroom of their home here, apparently victims of monoxide gas poisoning.

REICHENBERG, Germany —(UNS)—The Sudetenland, following the first election in the former Czechoslovakian area, today stood like Austria and all great Germany solidly in the Nazi column.

Thirty-five deputies to represent the Sudetenland in the Reichstag, all Nazis, were elected and Chancellor Hitler received a 98.79 per cent vote of confidence.

Out of the total electorate of 2,211,895, Hitler received 2,152,256 ballots. Anti-Hitler votes totalled but 26,497 and spoiled papers 5,212.

U. S. SHIP LEAVES

Japanese Provide Escort For Shanghai-Bound Gunboat.

SHANGHAI—(U.P.)—A Japanese spokesman said today that the American gunboat Luzon and the French escort vessel Admiral Charner had left Hankow for Shanghai, accompanied by three Japanese torpedo boats and a Japanese airplane.

The Japanese had long refused permission for the Luzon to go down the Yangtze, asserting that the river was dangerous because of Chinese miners.

Banquet Tomorrow To Ring Down Tygers' Grid Curtain

Tomorrow night the Mansfield high school football season will be officially closed.

The climax to the Tygers' season again this year is The News-Journal banquet, given annually for the squad. It is scheduled at the Mansfield-Leland hotel at 6:30 p. m. Tuesday.

This year's banquet promises to be one of the finest ever staged.

Don Peden, Ohio University coach, will be the principal speaker and Inwood Smith, former Mansfield high and Ohio State grid star, will be toastmaster. Other speakers will include school officials and Mansfield merchants.

The program will also include sound motion pictures of the highlights of important college games this season. Music will be provided by members of the Mansfield high band, directed by J. Merton Holcombe.

Banquet tickets will be available at downtown agencies until Tuesday noon. They may be purchased at the business office of The News-Journal, Senior high school, Tawse Pharmacy and Bates' candy shop. The price is $1.55, tax included.

FINDS METERS MADE FRIENDS

Mansfield Delegation Reports Zanesville 'Sold' on Plan, Nets $1,400 Monthly.

Parking meters, under consideration for downtown Mansfield, entered Zanesville amidst doubt and opposition three months ago, but now have won the support of merchants, motorists and other organizations which bitterly opposed their installation.

The city treasury there is collecting revenue of $1,400 a month —an average of $8 each—from the city's 177 meters.

Zanesville's downtown parking problem, once as much a headache to city officials and an undermanned police department as that of Mansfield, has been untangled largely because parking meters have caused the all-day parker to seek parking space where he does not have to drop a nickel in the slot.

This is the substance of a report compiled today by Paul W. Williams, secretary-manager of Chamber of Commerce from individual surveys submitted to him by members of a delegation which made a trip to Zanesville last La Plata, a passenger steamer of 8,056 tons, was bound for Buenos Aires from Hamburg.

CINCINNATI, O. —(U.P.)— Rev. John Malick, pastor of the First Unitarian Congregational church, today advocated state legalization of gambling.

MORGAN FIXES LOSS FOR TVA AT $3,157,000

Ousted Chairman Testifies Operation of Power Units to Cost $13,076,000.

INCOME TO BE $9,919,000

Declares He Sought to Avoid Litigation Expense in Dig at Other Directors.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, former chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority, estimated today there would be an annual loss of $3,157,000 when the seven TVA dams already completed or under construction begin operating as a unified system.

Testifying before a senate-house investigating committee, Morgan asserted that TVA electrical costs do not reflect numerous items representing a "concealed subsidy."

Expenses 13 Millions.

If the entire potential power is generated when the seven dams are in operation, he said, annual expenses will be about $13,076,000.

Assuming that the power is sold at present rates, he said the annual income would be $9,919,000.

He added, however, that present rates probably would be reduced.

The annual deficit of $3,157,000, he said, "leaves out a considerable number of expenses that in my opinion should be included."

Morgan was ousted by President Roosevelt after months of squabbling among members of the TVA board. Later congress decided to investigate the whole TVA setup and the private utilities operating in the TVA area.

Hits Other Members.

The former chairman said it had been claimed that TVA lost large sums because of litigation expenses. He added that he had tried at the beginning to obviate litigation but that "in my opinion there was a preference (on the part of other members of the TVA board) for conflict and litigation rather than agreements."

The other members are David Lilienthal and Dr. Harcourt A. Morgan. The latter succeeded Dr. Arthur Morgan as board chairman.

In the TVA "yardstick" program, under which the agency sells power to communities wholesale and they in turn retail it, Morgain said such items as interest on working capital were "not taken into account."

Earlier, Morgan suggested that a single administrator be substituted for the agency's three directors.

TWO MORE DAYS

Davey Expected to Rule on Mrs. Hahn's Fate Tomorrow.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—The shadow of death lengthened toward Anna Marie Hahn today but the condemned Cincinnati poison slayer apparently maintained hope of evading execution.

That hope rested with Gov. Martin L. Davey who said he would decide before her scheduled death Wednesday night whether to commute her sentence to life imprisonment or permit her to become the first woman to die in Ohio penitentiary's electric chair.

Daniel S. Earhart, Davey's executive secretary said he would complete today a report on last Thursday's clemency hearing for the 32-year old mother and submit it to the governor without any personal recommendations. He said the governor was expected back late today or tomorrow from a week-end trip.

READING, Pa.—(AP)—Ten-year-old Chester Kozlowski was "brought to life" yesterday after apparently drowning in an old canal.

Despairing of the boy's life after finding no trace of breathing or heart action for 10 minutes, hospital physicians placed him in a mechanical respirator. He was revived.

FRANCE READY TO DEFEND COLONIES 'BY EVERY MEANS'

Premier Says French Won't Surrender To Italian Demands In Statement Making Stand Definite Before Signing No-War Agreement.

(By Associated Press)

PARIS—Premier Daladier flatly asserted today that France had no intention of giving up any part of her territory, personally answering Italian clamor for French Corsica and Tunisia.

Daladier, in a communique, announced his intention of visiting the two regions shortly after the first of the year.

He urged inhabitants, who have been demonstrating riotously against the Italian campaign, to remain calm.

"There is no need to state that these manifestations (in Italy) will meet strong opposition against the cession of any territory over which the national flag floats," the premier declared.

His statement was regarded as doubly significant in view of preparations here to receive Joachim Von Ribbentrop, German foreign minister, who is coming to Paris tomorrow to sign a French-German no-war accord.

Daladier did not limit his remarks to Italy's newly-raised demands.

He also declared France's resolution to demand respect for "the absolute integrity" of all French territory by "every means."

Both French and Germans agree that the war-renunciation pact, similar to the declaration signed by Reichsfuehrer Hitler and British Prime Minister Chamberlain at Munich last Sept. 30, would be only the starting point for further negotiations between Paris and Berlin.

Clears France's Stand.

Some observers believed that Daladier had cleared the air for the French-German discussions with a definite expression of France's position against colonial demands from either of the Fascist partners.

No hitch was expected, however, to signing of the pact, as Daladier apparently was determined to go through with it. This was indicated by the fact that formal conversations were arranged for after the signing rather than before it.

The demonstrations of loyalty in Tunisia and Corsica, Daladier said, were "the best response that could be made" to Italy's demands.

He added that a protest made by France already had won a declaration from the Italian government that demonstrations for colonial claims were not formulated by the government.

That the premier made his declaration after receiving the Italian answer, however, indicated that France still believed it would be difficult in a country where public opinion and the press are as well controlled as in Italy for such a campaign to get under way without government support.

A report that Von Ribbentrop would offer to act as mediator between Rome and Paris already was mooted about Paris, but the question everywhere was "at what price?"

Premier Daladier's own Radical Socialist party newspaper, L'Oeuvre, referred to the fact that Von Ribbentrop's visit to Paris coincided with Italian agitation for French Tunisia and Corsica and said flatly: "It is a trap."

Daladier himself, reliable informants said, was ready to reject Von Ribbentrop's bid if any strings were tied to it, such as aid for the German goal of returned colonies.

Wants Recognition.

These informants indicated the French believed Premier Mussolini of Italy would be willing to call a halt to the Tunisia agitation if the French would recognize the insurgent Spanish Generalissimo, Francisco Franco, as head of a belligerent government. Officials hinted that France would not offer such a price.

The French have lost no time preparing to meet the Italian agitation. There were demonstrations of loyalty Sunday by Moslems in Susa-Tunisie, by Tunisians and French in the City of Tunis, and by thousands of Corsicans in Ajaccio and Bastia.

In Corsica, where the spirited inhabitants of Napoleon's island birthplace never have been slow to demonstrate, organizers of Sunday mass meetings received a telegram from the French Naval Minister, Cesar Campinchi, expressing his "full agreement" with the demonstrations.

ROME: Italy Gives Press Free Hand In Attacks On France

(By United Press)

ROME—The government, in response to representations by Great Britain, has refused to accept any responsibility for increasingly bitter attacks by newspapers against France, it was understood today.

The Earl of Perth, the British ambassador, has seen Count Galeazzo Ciano twice since Wednesday's demonstration in the chamber of deputies at which members demanded French Corsica, Tunisia, Savoy and Nice.

Ciano, Premier Benito Mussolini's foreign minister and son-in-law, told Lord Perth firmly that the government was responsible neither for the chamber demonstration nor the newspaper attacks, it was said.

Not only Rome newspapers, but those of the provinces joined in the attack on France.

"The Italian people have not forgotten any of the wrongs they suffered in the past," said the Popolo Di Roma. "They have not forgotten that an Italian dialect is spoken in Corsica and that Tunisia was stolen from us."

The newspaper, Regime Fascista, alleged that during the recent European crisis France was prepared to invade Italian Tripolitania from Tunis, and to put Italian residents of Tunis in concentration camps on the frontier as a shield.

BACKGROUND: Demands Of Italy Threat To Europe's Peace?

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The turn of week-end events in Europe carries threats against the four-power pact of Munich which bring the world to the threshold of another crisis. The following dispatch explains the potentialities of the breach between France and Italy.)

(Copyright, 1938, United Press)

Has Europe's post-Munich road toward peace reached a dead end?

Will Mussolini's quarrel with France knock the props from under Europe's friendship program?

The answer to these questions rests today with Adolf Hitler. His attitude toward Mussolini's dream of Mediterranean empire has become the big question mark in world affairs as this year of war alarms draws to a close.

Today Mussolini is demanding his share of the profits of the Munich settlement—wider influence in the Mediterranean at the expense of France.

Without the aid of his Nazi partner at Berlin, Mussolini could hope to do little more than disrupt peace negotiations with Britain and France.

With Hitler's active support, the Fascist premier might easily create an unbearable strain in the Mediterranean where both France and Britain have vast interests

Son Pleads Not Guilty In Murder of Ohio Minister

RETURNED TO JAIL TO AWAIT JURY'S ACTION

Accused Killer to Attend Funeral Services for Pastor Tonight.

(By Associated Press)

CHILLICOTHE — Robert Bready, 29, pleaded innocent today to the slaying of his pastor-father, Dr. Russell H. Bready of nearby Bainbridge, and was bound over to the Ross county grand jury on a first degree murder charge.

Bready sat silently in the court of Justice of the Peace Samuel G. Briggs as his attorney, Paul Hertenstein, entered the plea.

Prosecutor Lester S. Reid, who said Bready confessed he shot his father while he took the boy on a walk to "sober up" early Friday, said the case would be presented to the grand jury probably Jan. 3.

Will Attend Rites.

Funeral services for Dr. Bready, whom the son termed "the original prohibitionist," will be held tonight at 8 p. m. at Bainbridge, and Deputy Sheriff Lon Lowery, who filed the murder charge, said he would take young Bready to the rites, then return him to jail immediately.

Rev. Ira J. Jones of Columbus, Methodist Episcopal district superintendent, announced as his funeral service topic, "The Life Worthwhile." Burial will be in Pioneer, O., beside the grave of Dr. Bready's wife, who died last July.

No services were held yesterday in the Stone church where the highly regarded minister, who had held pastorates in Ohio and Michigan cities, customarily preached. A church official said congregation members were too broken up over the shooting to attempt to conduct services.

David Cowles, Cleveland ballistics expert, reported that his tests showed the bullet taken from Dr. Bready's head had been fired from a revolver found by police in his son's bed at the parsonage.

Sees Less Severe Charge.

The prosecutor admitted Bready's confession "wasn't very strong" because he was "too drunk to remember" what had taken place, adding that he believed the degree of homicide might be reduced. Bready expressed remorse over the tragedy and said he deserved to be punished.

Bready admitted having been treated for alcoholic insanity in the Toledo state hospital. His divorced wife and young daughter live in Cincinnati.

Richard Bready of Washington, D. C., said after a talk with his brother that he was convinced Robert didn't know what he was doing. Richard and his two sisters, Mrs. W. W. Kennedy of Warsaw, Ind., and Mrs. Stewart Watson of Detroit, retained Hertenstein as temporary counsel in the case.

"Outsiders" Win Championship In Bridge Tourney

CLEVELAND—(INS)—A pair of "outsiders," Frank E. Bubna and Mrs. H. E. Funk, of Cleveland, today held the matched pair championship of the American contract bridge league.

Playing in the national bridge championship tournament, Bubna and Mrs. Funk scored 528 points to nose out Mrs. A. B. Sobel and Alphonse Moyse, of New York, who scored 525 points.

Bubna, who said he had not been playing much bridge recently, is federal relations co-ordinator for the city of Cleveland. He never before has won a tournament. Mrs. Funk has won several events, but seldom has played bridge with Bubna.

Fourth place was taken by Oswald Jacoby, of Dallas, nationally known bridge authority, and Charles Lochridge, of New York, with 409½ points. Mrs. Joseph Culbertson, former wife of Ely Culbertson, and her partner, Charles Vogelhofer, of New York, finished far down the line, with 366½ points.

Strikes at Auto Plant, Stockyards Settled

Up and Down the Street

The weather and Notre Dame's football defeat nearly spoiled the Junior Association of Commerce charter presentation dinner Saturday night for Atty. Francis R. O'Brien, president of the association. The rain cut down the attendance to about half of O'Brien's estimate, and he had a bet on Notre Dame, his alma mater. Halfway through the ceremonies at the Mansfield-Leland hotel, O'Brien was informed of Notre Dame's 13 to 0 loss to Southern California. After that, his friends wouldn't let him forget the score.

If the old adage that a rabbit's foot brings a person good luck, Floyd Dent, area scout executive, should have good luck for the rest of his life. Dent was a guest at a rabbit dinner at fire station No. 4 Saturday night for a scout group, at which a dozen rabbits were served. Following the dinner, Dent was presented with 48 feet (all the 12 rabbits had) because of the bad luck he had while hunting recently near Tiffin.

He had four different Sunday papers, Saturday's News-Journal, and a Cleveland daily, besides the magazine on current topics.

SLAYS 2 WITH RAZOR, HATCHET

Ohio WPA Worker Accused of Killing Wife, Neighbor; Son Sees Murder.

(By Associated Press)

WARREN—Sheriff Roy Hardman said today Nick Babich, 54, was arrested for the hatchet and butcher knife slaying of Mrs. Babich, 47, and razor killing of his neighbor, Dan Gross, 50, about seven miles northwest of Warren.

The sheriff said Babich, after attacking his wife last night about 10 o'clock during an argument, admitted hiding in bushes by the Gross home while a posse, formed by the sheriff and state highway patrolmen, searched for him.

When Mr. and Mrs. Gross arrived home, about 3 a. m., the sheriff said Babich related, Babich pulled Gross from his automobile by the hair and slashed his throat with a razor. Gross ran across the road and dropped dead.

Babich's son, Andy, 19, told Sheriff Hardman he heard his parents arguing, and when his mother screamed he ran to her aid, but when he saw his father hitting her with a hatchet he ran to a neighbor's home. His mother followed, Andy said, and Babich ran after her, striking her with the hatchet, and finally stabbing her in the stomach with a butcher knife. She died about 1:30 a. m. in a Warren hospital.

J. A. C. PLEDGES AID FOR CIVIC PROGRESS AS IT GETS CHARTERS

An independent organization since it was formed two years ago, the Mansfield Junior Association of Commerce became a part of the state and national Junior Chambers of Commerce at a charter presentation dinner Saturday night at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

Members of the Mansfield organization were urged to "keep faith in the future" and to contribute to the betterment of the city as they received their state and national charters from William Cory, of Chillicothe, president of the state chapter, and Ben Hadley, Columbus, national director from Ohio.

The charters were presented to Atty. Francis R. O'Brien, president of the Mansfield unit, who pledged the association's support for worthwhile movements in the city.

"The Junior Chamber of Commerce represents young manpower at work; it is an organization of builders, not wreckers, and it breeds a passion for civic service," Philip C. Ebling, Dayton, national president, said in the principal address.

"Young men have done much in the building of the nation, and you members of this organization have the advantages of the experience of the senior Chamber of Commerce and the fire and enthusiasm of youth to help you to be of valuable service to your community," he said.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce was organized in 1915 in St. Louis and now has chapters in 44 states and 16 foreign countries, Ebling asserted.

Its purposes, he said, is to "bring young men together in a friendly spirit to build for the future."

Judge C. H. Huston, retiring president of the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce, said the Junior Chamber of Commerce represents "youth on the march and in Mansfield is a member of a team which is fighting the forces that would retard the city's progress."

Pledging his co-operation and expressing his willingness to accept advice and suggestions from the Junior Association of Commerce, Mayor C. M. Hunter, added that "we can't have too many worthwhile civic organizations."

Paul W. Williams, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, Rev. Grover E. Swoyer, pastor of the First Lutheran church, and delegations from Salem, Cleveland, Youngstown, Marion, Columbus, Dayton and Chillicothe were guests at the meeting.

TRIAL DELAYED

Hearing of Charges Against Ault Postponed Again.

The trial of State Highway Director Ivan R. Ault, former chief of division No. 3 at Ashland, who is under indictment on charges of soliciting political campaign funds from civil service workers, apparently had been postponed indefinitely, it was learned today.

The trial was scheduled to open in Mt. Vernon this morning but was postponed for the second time until Jan. 3, according to F. D. Schell of Ashland, Ault's attorney.

International News Service dispatches from Columbus reported, however, that Judge Philip H. Weiland of Knox county common pleas court who is to preside, said no date had been set for the trial.

Ault was indicted by an Ashland county grand jury on nine counts charging soliciting of funds to aid in Gov. Martin L. Davey's campaign for re-election. A change of venue from Ashland to Mt. Vernon was obtained by Ault's attorney.

6,500 FISHER BODY WORKERS BACK AT JOBS

'Misunderstanding' Cause of Walk Out, Martin Says; Stock Handlers Return.

BULLETIN

CHICAGO—(INS)—The Chicago newspaper guild called a strike of its members in all departments of the Chicago Herald and Examiner and the Chicago Evening American today.

(By International News Service)

FLINT, Mich.—Settlement of the four-day Fisher Body Plant No. 1 strike, which threw 9,500 United Automobile Workers union members into idleness, was announced today.

General Motor corporation officials and UAW leaders issued a joint statement announcing the strike settlement early this morning after an all-night session.

The strike was called Thursday afternoon, throwing 6,500 Fisher Body workers out of work. The consequent shortage of bodies forced shutdown of the Buick plant assembly line, making 3,000 workers there idle.

Shortly after the strike was called the UAW issued a bulletin saying the Flint local had voted to strike because of "an accumulation of long-standing grievances."

Resumes Operations

Company officials said the Buick plant, employing 14,000 workers, would resume work this morning as usual, since there was a sufficient body supply on hand for one day's work when the strike was called.

Fisher plant officials said the plant would begin operations with the afternoon shift.

UAW President Homer Martin, leaving the conference room, said:

"The strike at Fisher No. 1 plant in Flint was called as a result of a misunderstanding that the local plant manager's decision on the question of changing from piece to day work method of pay could not be appealed to higher corporation officials."

STOCKYARDS NOW OPERATE

CHICAGO — (INS) — Striking handlers returned to their jobs at the Chicago union stockyards today, ending a 13-day tieup of the world's biggest livestock market.

The dispute was brought to an end yesterday through the mediation of Mayor Edward J. Kelly.

The union voted to accept an agreement by the company to recognize the CIO local as sole bargaining agent and to sign a contract.

The union members reserved the right to strike again if the contract is not signed within 10 days.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Prof. Hutchins Fails to Get Passing Grades on His Essay on College Football

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—The best mark I can give Mr. Bob Hutchins, the president of the University of Chicago, on his football paper in the Saturday Evening Post is about a lower-case "d." You can foul a writer by pretending to report in a single utterance or paragraph all that he has said in 3,000 words of carefully prepared copy, but I hope I am not unfair in saying that his piece is largely a repetition of many old and familiar complaints against football and that he misplaced the overemphasis.

Mr. Hutchins has ideas on education which have been expounded at great length and with great prominence and still are widely misconstrued, unappreciated or justly rejected. He makes the very topic of education such a gaseous subject that one feels overawed and in need of a special course of study even to approach it.

* * *

But I would accuse him of flippant overstatement where he says that, now at the end of the season, "the last halfback will receive his check" because that obviously intends to say that all football players or, certainly, most of them, are mock amateurs or sneak professionals, and surely we must know it isn't as bad as that.

We do have pro teams in Chicago, to be sure, and the shame of that is two-fold.

First, it is muckerism in sport and education for an institution which pretends to mold the character of young students to hire players and conspire with them to live out a lie. The player himself and the other students on the campus are aware of the sneakery of this, and the practice conveys to the young a belief that dishonesty and hypocricy are high conduct.

Second, it is contemptibly cheap to pay such coolie wages as are paid to the football pros for drawing enormous gate receipts, and the fact that a kid gets four years of schooling thrown in is one which apologists for the system should be ashamed to mention. The educational facilities are there, and the cost to the school of accommodating one more student, the football player, is imperceptible in the budget and negligible by comparison with the money that he draws through the turnstiles.

* * *

But I could contend, on the basis of long association, that the professionals, or, let us say, paid, or, better, underpaid, players—are comparatively few. This is a foggy subject, because nobody ever really knows, and the internal revenue, which has gotten at the truth of many mysteries in this country, has no access to the books of colleges.

Mr. Hutchins also says that "everybody" deplores the "overemphasis on athletics" and in the same paragraph knocks himself for a loop in saying that nothing has been done about it because "nobody dares to defy the public, dishearten the students or deprive alma mater of the loyalty of the alumni." In the field of education Mr. Hutchins is one of the stars and a distinguished broken-field thinker, but in journalism he takes himself out of his own play and I think I will have to keep him after class.

* * *

"The trouble with football," he says, "is the money that is in it," when he should have said that the trouble with education is that it has taken in too much territory and is attempting to teach book learning to everybody, including a large element of human beings who are suited to learn skills rather than lessons.

Thousands of such young people are routed through the standard courses who are apathetic toward intellectual matters and suffer and waste their time in college and get in the way of those other students, perhaps only a minority of the whole, who have the mental and spiritual appetite for learning.

If the educational system were able to achieve its great goal everybody in the country would be detained in college to the age, on the average, of 22 years, and, considering that there is now agitation to pension everyone at 50, the nation might stand to get out of each individual too few man hours of full, participating citizenship and work to make a go of the American concern.

* * *

Naturally, with such a large element of juveniles and knowledge-proof students, the colleges have to find amusement and distractions, and football not only fills this need but draws clients, as the students might be called, and pays for itself and many other frivolities of the extended children's hour.

Abolish football, or de-emphasize it, as Mr. Hutchins suggests, and the enrollment over the land would slump sharply toward that point where only students capable of education would remain in school, or slightly less than a quorum for the Yale bowl.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—ZaSu Pitts, oh-dear, is with us again. Flutter, flutter, on-my!

But what's this? No oh-dear. No flutter-flutter. No weaving hands in the hair shelling invisible peas. A reformed character, b'gosh!

ZaSu went away for a while. She went away for three weeks—and stayed three months. Personal appearance tour, her first, and a box-office bull's eye.

"I don't know why, really," said ZaSu, fumbling with her pocketbook with a sort of weaving gesture. "I wasn't good, I know. I had a straight man and he fed me the laughs. The laughs were all mine—that's why it was terrible. I didn't do anything, really. Maybe it was the pictures that played with the act. Maybe they had good stage bands. I don't know."

It's a great temptation, quoting ZaSu, to finish every sentence with Oh-dear. That's because an overworked screen character keeps intruding on the flesh-and-blood Miss Pitts, who doesn't actually say "Oh, dear." Well, not often. And she doesn't weave her hands, either. Not much. And she doesn't talk that way, in that mournful, quavery voice. She does almost, but the screen voice as we know it is an exaggeration.

* * *

ZASU had been having offers for tours for years. Two years ago she couldn't have found time. One year ago she still was too busy. This year she had plenty of time. Two years age she played in 35 pictures. Last year she played in 25. This year she had plenty of time.

ZaSu is too diplomatic to say why. She wouldn't dream of insinuating that any of those too many pictures were bad ones, because ZaSu, oh-dear, doesn't want to hurt anybody's feelings. But that was the trouble. She was making enough pictures to appear in both sections of a double bill, and sometimes—with the Hal Roach shorts—to be in every number of a program except the newsreel and the Mickey Mouse.

It was high time she got away. And when she did, what happened? Picture offers again. She's in "Always Leave Them Laughing" at Warner's, goes over to Paramount next.

"And there isn't an Oh-Dear in this script," she sighed thankfully. And I'm weaving the hands as little as possible—There's been enough of that, hasn't there? I'm hoping, sometime, to get a part that's half-serious again. I don't mind being laughed at, if only I could work in a little sympathy, a little human stuff, at the same time. . . ."

And this, coming from the lady who once was heralded as the screen's great tragedienne, struck me as a touching compromise.

* * *

THE voice opened a new career for ZaZu and made her eventually Hollywood's highest-priced free-lance actress, but it closed the door on serious roles.

Once, in a talkie, she tried a serious part. It was seriously acted, and a beautiful job. But it never reached the public. The first preview audience roared as soon as she flashed on the screen, even before she had a chance to open her mouth.

Still, the case for ZaSu Pitts isn't entirely hopeless. Much, much later in life a broken-down comedienne named Marie Dressler succeeded in becoming the screen's No. 1 tear-jerker.

APPROACHING HOLIDAY ENLIVENS THIS WEEK

Organizations Schedule Special Christmas Functions for Guests, Families; Welfare Work Occupies Many Service Groups.

MAYBE the snow has melted, and the weather may be somewhat reminiscent of Indian summer, but mere weather conditions have nothing to do with the plans of Mansfield social and welfare organizations for the approaching holidays.

Some of the pre-Christmas activity is evident in the meetings planned by two organizations for tomorrow. During the afternoon members of the Audubon club will entertain their friends at a guest tea in the assembly room of the Central Methodist Episcopal church. Hostesses include Mrs. R. E. Race and Mrs. C. M. Lutz, officers

At Children's Home.

Dolly Madison club members will go out to the Children's home tomorrow evening for their session, and Miss Bertha Ruess will be the guest speaker. The hostesses for the Christmas meeting include Mrs. Hugh Clark, Mrs. Charlotte Sword, Mrs. Harry Downs, Mrs. Margaret Linton, Mrs. Norman L. Wolfe, Mrs. Tracy Styert, Mrs. Mayme Wentz, Mrs. Henry Brunner and Mrs. Wilma Dunshee.

Wednesday members of the Nomad club will entertain their husbands at a special evening meeting and program at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Black. At an all-day meeting Dec. 7 at North Lake park pavilian members of the Mothers Home circle, a welfare organization, will assemble for the packing of Christmas baskets.

Party Day.

Thursday appears to be party day for nearly every organization scheduled to meet then has planned some type of social function. Mrs. Paul Hensler will entertain the Notre Dame Study club and the Chautauqua circle will meet with Mrs. Louis M. Campbell for a party. A large group of card and social clubs will have gift exchanges at this time.

Mystic club members will dance the same evening at the Masonic temple. Members of the committees on arrangements include D. A. McCullough, Earl E. Bates, A. F. Porter, W. H. Goodenough, H. M. Sebring, W. H. Barr, D. L. Divelbiss, W. G. Schwan, C. A. Wolfarth and D. A Eckert.

Activities for the week-end seem to be rather quiet, with no dances scheduled by any of the major organizations, and only a meeting of the Wooster College club of Mansfield at the R. F. Cox home Friday night attracting widespread interest

Dancing Parties Assume Lead for Holiday Affairs

Charity Ball Tops List of Interesting Events, Others Make Plans.

A popular song of a few months back catchily exclaimed "I'se got those dancin' feet," and if the number of dances scheduled for the Christmas-New Year's fortnight are any indication the phrase from the song is applicable to many Mansfielders. Of course the affair that is attracting wide interest now in all social circles of the city is the Charity Ball which is being sponsored at the Coliseum on the evening of Dec. 19.

The affair, sponsored by the well-known triumvirate, the Three Muster Cheers, is to provide Christmas dinners for the city's indigent families, and committees from the American Legion, the Warner Brothers theaters and The News-Journal assisted by a corps of citizens are diligently at work.

Preceding the ball by a few nights will be the regular dance of the Pandora club on Dec. 14. Members of the committee include Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harpster, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gadfield, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Widder, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Potts, Mr. and Mrs. Frend Boals and Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Watkins. Nels Blocher and his orchestra will play for the function at Schuler's.

Getting into Christmas week without any further ado we find that the Mystic club will open the series with a dance on Dec. 22. The following night members of Beta Sigma Phi sorority will entertain with their second annual holiday dance at the Mansfield-Leland.

The Our club will entertain on Dec. 26, and Mr. and Mrs. N O. Weamer, Mr. and Mrs Lydon Beam, Mr. and Mrs. Avery Hand and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Herring will be responsible for the supper-dance. Helping the old year out will be the Dec. 30 affair sponsored by the University club, and the Dec. 31 supper dance being given by the Our club.

Selfishness Hardest To Endure

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
(One of a Series)

Selfishness, unlike measles, leaves no rash. It's one of those deadly, ingrowing diseases that for a while may fool parents, relatives, even friends. More often than not it betrays the victim himself.

Selfishness is not confined to either sex. Indeed, men get away with it better than women, because this is a man's world. But take warning, there is no surer way of losing your sweetheart than by being selfish.

Six Ways To Lose Him, Or Her.

Selfishness has a lot of fancy aliases. It masquerades as personality, individuality, strong character, distinction.

The victim of over-indulgence has no idea why an indifferent world seems to be able to get along very well without the selfish one's society. This makes for peevishness, with conditions at home. The parents try harder to please, but in some vague way the unpopular child ascribes the general unpopularity to them.

A selfish person is always an egoist. But in considering individual happiness, the egoist is so apt to over-reach and discover a good deal of loneliness around his pinnacle.

Selfish people have a great gift of being sorry for themselves. They feel they're not understood. Besides the gift of self-pity, another trait of the egoist is to find excuses for his selfishness.

If you marry a selfish person, you should know what to expect. You will never have a wish considered or a whim gratified unless it happens to be the wish or whim of the one who lays down the Law. To marry a selfish man or woman is a short cut to a martyr's crown. If a girl is desperately in love with a man of this type, she may think a martyr's crown a becoming halo, but as the years roll on, it is more than likely to prove a crown of thorns

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, December 6.

The astrological forecast for this day holds conflicting testimonies. There is much promise for gain but, at the same time, there are hints of doubtful issues, losses and perplexing problems. There may be loss of money, possibly through carelessness, unsound decisions or the failure to grasp opportunities for growth and expansion which may be presented by friendly interests.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year in which affairs may call for the exercise of good judgment and sound business acumen, and require the ability to discern and grasp opportunities provided by helpful friends or other sources of influence and cooperation. Finances may be placed in jeopardy unless wisely managed and safeguarded.

A child born on this day may be fairly efficient and aspiring, but it may not have the cleancut ideas and shrewdness necessary to overcome obstacles or to take advantage of excellent opportunities in life.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"Oh! I'm so sorry! I'll remember," I said, hoping my pretended contribution was registering. "It was only that I was so surprised to learn Noel was not at the farm—"

"Nothing about my son ever surprises me," he said cryptically, "including the very surprising fact that you have not see him. But, of course, I cannot go back of your assurance. And now, may I speak to Mary, please?"

"Oh!" I registered consternation as strongly as I could. "Is it absolutely necessary that you speak to her? Couldn't I take the message?"

I could guess the blank, offended amazement and the quick suspicion in his face from the silence which followed my query. Then he put a counter question, quick, explosive.

"Isn't she at the hotel?"

I was purposefully voluble in my reply.

"Yes, she is here, but she is in bed with a bad nervous headache. If she has gone to sleep, I wouldn't want to waken her. Her nerves have been in rather bad shape lately.'

"The role is perhaps too much for her?"

It was the second time he had made this suggestion, and his voice was silky, suave, devilish, I told myself in its implied threat of taking the cherished role away from Mary.

"Oh! no, indeed," I told him, frantically waving Mary in the direction of her bedroom. "But I think we both have taken the preparation for it too strenuously. We have been at it night and day, because she is so anxious to satisfy your well-known critical standards, and she really has exhausted herself. But I am sure quiet and sleep and more fresh air than she has been getting will do wonders for her."

"A real 'trouper' knows neither fatigue nor nerves, nothing but the requirements of her role," he said with something very like contempt investing his voice. Then his voice was suddenly metallic.

"I am sorry," he said, the words a mockery as he uttered them, "but I must insist upon speaking to Mary as soon as she can come to the telephone."

"Will you take the responsibility of my waking her?" I asked at last, making my voice as ingenuous as I could. "I really think it very unwise."

"I will assume full responsibility," he answered grimly.

"Then please hold the line," I told him. "I will waken her at once, and get her to the telephone as soon as I can."

I laid down the receiver with something as nearly like a bang as I could manage, and fairly "shooing" Mary before me into her bedroom, I closed the door.

"He insists upon talking to you." I said, "and he no doubt will quiz you about Noel's whereabouts, so be prepared——"

"Oh! but Auntie Madge," she wailed, sinking down upon the bed and covering her face with her hands. "I simply can't talk to him. I can't, I tell you, I can't."

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

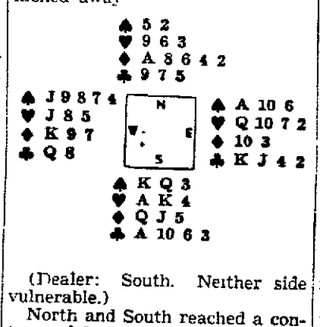
"The Authority on Authorities"

FORGET YOUR HABIT

Anybody who leads an honor from a queen-jack toward an ace has a more or less fixed habit regarding the move If his card is not covered by the king, he finesses If the king covers, he comes up with the ace. That may be good bridge on most occasions, but if a player is not prepared to vary that procedure in unusual spots, he may suffer the humiliation of seeing a good contract kicked away



(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

North and South reached a contract of 3-No Trumps on this deal after bidding of 1-Club by South, 1-Diamond by North, 2-No Trump by South,, 3-Diamonds by North and 3-No Trump by South.

The spade 7 was led by West and won with the A by East, who returned the spade 10 to South's Q With two winning tricks in spades, two in hearts and one in clubs, declarer needed four diamond tricks to make his game. The diamond Q was led and when West covered with the K, the A was played from dummy. That play limited declarer to two tricks only in diamonds With the K, 10 and 9 missing and no other entry to dummy in the other suits, declarer should have allowed the K to hold the trick. Then on the next round of the suit the J could have been played and the third round would have cleared the suit, so that four tricks could have been taken in it.

Lubricants Help Keep Skin Well

By MME. QUI VIVE

Neglected, the skin deteriorates. Faces, hands and arms suffer from conditions that do not contribute to their good appearance. An epidermal surface that is protected with clothing gets along very well It doesn't freckle, develop a coarse texture nor wrinkle. It says pretty much as it was in youthful days.

Creams serve a useful purpose. They keep the skin from chapping and scaling. There is no doubt that they ward off wrinkles. The human hide loves lubricants, laps them up as kitten laps up cream. Oils provide a form of nourishment. The massage that is necessary for the application of creams acts upon the blood streams, helps remove epidermal debris.

When powder, cream or lotions are applied the treatment should be gentle. Massage is supposed to cleanse and invigorate; properly accomplished it will achieve these ends. If it is heavy it may have a depleting effect upon the delicate tissues. Refrain from giving your face a pummeling.

Friction in the cream with a gentle upward sweep of flattened finger tips. Don't, I beg of you, push up the flesh in folds. By doing that you will in time form turkey tracks around the eyes When the emollient is evenly distributed, give the flesh a brisk hammering with the finger tips

Pure cosmetics, properly applied, are of inestimable benefit to the complexion, the hands and the arms. They won't help conditions that are abnormal, by which we mean a skin that suffers from blotches, pimples or slumbering eczema, which call for the services of a medical man who specializes in disease of the skin and scalp.

Pimples demand drying substances, like soap. Applying creams, which are anything but drying, will sometimes spread the infection. Eruptions call for a medical examination, often a change of diet. The daily scrubbing of the entire body with soap suds and a heavy brush is the first requirement to make the skin function normally.

Never melt chocolate directly over a fire, since it is easily burned. Put it in the oven or melt it over a pan of hot water.

It is done in purple crepe with a spongy texture Cartridge pleats at one shoulder release gathers which are caught again at one side of the waist with another group of cartridge pleats. False Teeth Wearers Are Worst Breath Offenders!
"Need More Than a Mouth Wash" say Authorities . . . Recommend Polident
Plates and bridges soak up odors and impurities like a sponge! A thin dark scum collects on them. This scum holds germs and decay bacteria. It is so tough that ordinary brushing seldom removes it. And it gets into every tiny crevice where brushing can't even reach. Almost always it results in "denture breath"—probably the most offensive of all breath odors
Yet there's a perfect way to clean and purify false teeth without brushing, acid or danger. It is Polident, the powder that dissolves away all scum, stains, tarnish and odor. Makes breath sweeter—and plates or bridges look better and feel better. Tens of thousands call Polident a blessing for comfort, convenience and hygiene. Long-lasting can costs only 30¢ at any drug store. Approved by Good Housekeeping Bureau and dentists everywhere.
Cleans, Purifies Like Magic
Add a little Polident powder to ½ glass water. Stir. Then put in plate or bridge for 10 to 15 minutes—Rinse—and it's sweet and purified — ready to use!

Tight Race Looms In City A League Opening Tonight

Two Contests On First Bill

Yuncker Sports Face Hi-Speeds, Westinghouse Tackles Elks in Tilts at Senior High School.

PROMISING to stage one of the closest races in the history of the circuit, City Class A basketball league quintets will shove off tonight in their quest of the 1938-39 championship on the Mansfield high court at 7:30 o'clock.

Four well-balanced combines make up the city's premier league this season, and any one of the quartet appears strong enough to win the crown.

Tonight's program, at which all ladies will be admitted free, will consist of only two contests, but both should provide City league followers with an interesting menu.

Hold Spotlight.

Jimmy Breres' Yuncker Sports, defending champions, will hold a large share of the spotlight when they clash with the Earl Herrick Hi-Speeds in the initial melee. But the battle between the Westinghouse Electric and Elks Lodge teams at 8:30 is expected to provide its share of thrills.

The Sports' cagers will be out to protect a nine-game winning streak in City league competition, but Herrick's five may prove too big an obstacle. The champions waded through last season without a setback, but the shifting of two of the club's star players makes the outcome doubtful.

Tom Farrell and Jack Miner were with the Yuncker machine last year, but league officials voted to switch them to the Elks Lodge entry in an effort to balance the league.

Breres has secured Johnny Reece, Lexington high coach, to replace Farrell at center. He will also have Al Stuckler, one of the circuit's leading scorers, and Harold Hayfer available.

Several out-of-town amateur aces make their debut in the circuit before Mansfield fans tonight.

In the Hi-Speeds' lineup will be George Nana and Delnor Goldsmith of Galion. Nana, for the past two years performed in the Akron city league.

Another newcomer who will be watched is LaVerne Gray of Coshocton, 1937 individual scoring champion in the Central Ohio loop Gray, a freshman at Ashland college, will play with the Yuncker five.

The Elks will introduce a pair of strangers in Libby Guttman and Bob Cruikshank, the latter a former Cleveland high school star.

Also on the Hi-Speeds roster is Bob Fisher of Shelby, who has been a City league star for two seasons. Herrick signed him to replace Howard Poole who joins the Westinghouse ranks.

Elks Dangerous.

With Farrell and Miner in the lineup, the Elks Lodgemen present a dangerous scoring outfit Farrell won the individual title last year.

George Percy has a host of veteran performers to round out his Electric team. Heading the list are Harry Ross, George Bosko, George Hummel, Bob Shade, Fritz Vogel and Ed Hendrich.

This evening's attractions will see the return of the four-quarter contests, replacing the 15-minute halves used last season.

John Burnison, Galion high coach, will officiate at tonight's affairs. The clubs will play three rounds, with the champions of each round meeting in a playoff for the City crown

Rams Bow On Road

Suffer 37 to 20 Whipping in Saturday Night Game at Loudonville.

MADISON HIGH school's basketball record today consisted of one victory and one defeat.

The Rams, who opened their season with a 36 to 18 victory over Union Friday, bowed to Loudonville, 37 to 20, on the Red Birds' court Saturday. Coach Al Fendrick's men found the going extremely tough against the Birds and never threatened to overtake them.

Madison was limited to two points in the first period while the Red Birds tallied eight. Loudonville held a 14 to 7 lead at the half. The Red Birds staged their biggest scoring splurge on the third frame when they scored 14 points to hold a 28 to 3 lead going into the final quarter.

Harmon of Madison and Gardner of Loudonville led the scoring with nine points apiece.

Loudonville also defeated the Rams' reserves, 15 to 13, in the preliminary game.

Giants Rout Redskins, 36-0

Meet Green Bay Packers in Title Tilt.

CHICAGO—(AP)—A new professional football champion will be crowned next Sunday in New York and it will be either the touchdown-stingy New York Giants or the high-scoring Green Bay Packers.

The lineup for the title battle was definitely decided yesterday. The Giants completely crushed the Washington Redskins, 1937 champions, to capture eastern division honors. The Detroit Lions, Green Bay's only threat in the western division, dropped a 21 to 7 decision to the lowly Philadelphia Eagles and eliminated the possibility of a playoff with the Packers.

A crowd of 57,461, largest New York audience since Red Grange made his pro debut 15 years ago, watched the relentless attack which carried the Giants to a 36 to 0 rout of the Redskins

This game, the Detroit-Philadelphia tilt, and Cleveland's 13-7 victory over Pittsburgh, completed the league's regular season of play.

The Giants, who have held the opposition to 79 points this season for the league's top defensive record, sewed up the game in the first period. Ward Cuff, back, grabbed a pass from Sammy Baugh intended for Ed Justice and returned it to the opposing 43. On the first play Hank Soar raced around end for a touchdown.

Shortly after the subsequent kickoff, Jim Lee Howell, end, recovered a Washington fumble on the Redskins' 39 and five plays later Bull Karcis cracked guard for the score.

STOCK, WELLMAN THIRD IN CENTRAL STATES MEET

East End Team Wins Sandlot Gridiron Title

THE East End All-Stars today claimed the city sandlot football championship.

Their 14 to 0 victory over the Forest Gardens at the Taylor-Dise field Sunday before a crowd of 300 cinched their claim to the title in the last football game of the season in the city.

The East Enders scored in the second and fourth periods of the interesting contest. The Gardens threatened twice, once losing the ball on down on the six and again on the nine.

The All-Stars moved deep into the Gardens' territtory twice in the opening period. In the second frame, Johnny Linta passed to Pete Schadek for a first down on the Gardens' 15. Then Linta, behind perfect interference, raced across the goal line. He also added the extra point on a plunge.

Late in the first half, the Gardens advanced to the seven, where they gave the ball up on downs.

There was no scoring in the third period, but the Gardens threatened. They lost the ball on downs on the 10.

In the fourth period. Schadek and Harold Luckie took successive passes from Red Buzard to start the last touchdown drive. Then Linta got off on a 60-yard sprint. The safety man threw him on the five.

On the next play, Linta plowed across for the second and last touchdown. Linta passed to Schadek for the point.

The offensive play of Linta was the feature of the contest, with Luckie and Schadek and Fred Hallabrin contributing the defensive gems. The latter's punting kept the Gardens deep in their own territory during the greater part of the game.

HONOLULU, T. The game completed the Spartans' season with a total of 300 points rolled up in 12 games.

Defends Title Second Time In Two Weeks

Armstrong Meets Manfredo in Cleveland Bout.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Busy Henry Armstrong tonight defends his welterweight boxing championship for the second time in two weeks when he meets Californian Al Manfredo in the top bout of the annual Cleveland News Christmas Charity show.

Still bearing marks of his recent, successful welter-belt defense against Bolo-Punching Ceferino Garcia, Armstrong declared he was not taking Manfredo lightly in their 15-round setto. "Manfredo is a better boxer than Garcia," Armstrong opined.

Cleveland fight fans who saw Armstrong in action for less than a round on last year's Cleveland News show, as he batted out Tony Chavez, tough Mexican featherweight, were not excited over Manfredo's chances of winning a championship. They wanted to know, "how long will Manfredo last?"

Manfredo, confident throughout his training here, wasn't worried. "I've seen Armstrong fight, and I think I know how to beat him," said the Californian, who owns a sharp punching left hand.

Another champion and two former champions appear in ten round bouts preceding the title fracas. All are opposed by Clevelanders.

Solly Krieger, National Boxing association middleweight king, tangles with Carmen Barth; ex-lightweight title holder Lou Ambers takes on Frankie Wallace; and ex-featherweight Champ Petey Sarron meets Mike Gamiere.

Krieger, whose bout is an overweight affair, Ambers and Sarron were decided favorites, with local ringsters giving Barth the best chance of providing an upset.

Big Ten Votes Against Bid

But Approves Training Table for Gridsters.

CHICAGO—(INS)—There will be no Rose Bowl for the Big Ten, the faculty representatives of the Western conference were agreed today.

Although it had been previously rumored that a majority on the committee favored making the annual classic a closed affair between the Big Ten and the West coast champions, the proposition was turned down at Saturday's meeting.

The faculty representatives voted against prolonging the season beyond the Saturday previous to Thanksgiving, the present limit. The so-called training table was approved, allowing schools to furnish football players with their evening meal each day during the season

John Mariucci, crack end on the championship University of Minnesota team, was declared eligible for next year. The committee ruled his competition with the Hibbing, Minn., junior college did not constitute varsity play.

The central indoor track meet went to Northwestern University on March 10, 11 and 12.

Inmates Edge Akron Cagers

The Reformatory cagers had their hands full again Saturday, but pulled through with a 35 to 32 victory over the Hull Cleaners of Akron on the institution court.

The visitors jumped into a 12 to 6 lead in the first period, but the inmates went ahead in the next frame when they outscored the Akron quintet, 13 to 3. Akron reduced the lead in the third period, but was unable to overcome it in the final chapter.

Zuravel of Akron was the scoring star of the game with 20 points. Law led the inmates with 10 points.

CRAIG WOOD PASSES WALPER TO GAIN WIN

AUGUSTA, Ga. — (UP) — Craig Wood, Mamoroneck, N. Y., carried home top money from the Augusta open golf tournament today. Wood streaked to the finish with an aggregate 278. His total for the $5,000 tournament was six under par Second at 279 was Henry Picard. LOUISVILLE TANKS WIN FOURTH STRAIGHT TITLE

Minor League Chiefs Gather

Meet in New Orleans for Annual Meeting.

NEW ORLEANS —(AP)— Minor league baseball chieftains from 37 circuits gathered in hotel lobbies here today while the "hot stove" league sputtered.

Hundreds of them arrived for the 37th annual business session of the National Association of Professional Baseball leagues, which begins Wednesday.

In the meantime, several leagues were holding separate one or two-day meetings, as every potted palm hid a huddle ready to swap a bird in hand for two in the bushes.

Practically everybody was ready to take a set of sore feet for a classy shortstop, and no manager could afford to sit out a discussion.

Besides the swapping of players, always to the fore in the winter meeting of the minors, there was a deal of shop talk about changes in the rules.

Judge William C. Bramham of Durham, N. C., commissioner of the minor leagues, who arrived yesterday with numerous other club officials and managers, said some 35 proposed amendments to the national association agreement had been forwarded to him.

Judge Bramham himself has submitted amendments to make "rookie" and "non-class" rules uniform throughout the minors and to require leagues to award championships on won and lost percentages of regular seasons rather than by "Shaughnessy playoffs."

BAER NOT INTERESTED IN NON-TITLE BATTLE

SACRAMENTO, Cal. —(INS)—A reported offer of $20,000 for Max Baer to meet the winner of the Tony Galento-Otis Thomas fight Wednesday night at St. Louis probably will be turned down if and when received, Baer's manager, Ancil Hoffman, intimated today. Hoffman has his eyes trained on a possible match with Joe Louis at the San Francisco Golden Gate exposition next spring.

High School Cage Champs Face Tough Test

NEWARK — (AP) — Newark high school's basketeers, champions of the Ohio's class A quintets two of the last three years, face a long, uphill scrap if they are to return to the state title tourney for the fourth straight time in March.

Four of the starting quintet of last season, and five of the squad of 10, are absent this year. Graduation removed the pint-sized scoring sensation, Robert (Buddy) Mercer, and his running mate at guard, Bob Evans, as well as Henry (Jabbo) Giles, center, and forward Freddy Myers. Al Marzano, all-Ohio forward in 1937, who was out of action with an injured knee most of last season, also is absent.

Mercer set a tournament scoring record of 62 points for four games in the 1938 classic. Myers ranked second in the offensive department, while Giles and Evans were standout defensive players.

Only Paul Adams, all-Ohio forward, is back from last year's first string. Other members of the championship squad on hand are Robert Forgraves and Robert Westbrook, guards: Bill Ryan, six-foot two-inch center, and Ralph Woltjen, forward.

Coach Clifford Orr is counting heavily on several members of last year's reserve squad which won 13 of 15 games while the varsity was taking 24 of 25. The reserve graduates include Clyde Edgar Shipp, six-foot three-inch center, and Howard Walker and Bob Matthews, sharpshooting forwards.

The Wildcats are defending three championships. Last season they won the Central Ohio league, Central district and State championships. The slate includes 17 games, 10 with central Ohio league foes and others with Columbus, East, Findlay, Hamilton, Dayton Roosevelt, Mt. Vernon, Massillon and Canton McKinley, the non-league foes comprising last year's best from the other five high school districts.

Last year the Wildcats lost only to Massillon, 1937 state finalist, 43 to 30.

Lodgemen Take Two Games From Liederkranz Club; Clyde Ritter Hits Wood for 686 Total.

THERE was no let up in the heavy scoring at the Meder Recreation alleys over the week-end.

The Moose lodge team did its share of scoring as it took two games from the Liederkranz club in an N. C. O. Traveling league match Sunday.

The lodgemen counted 3106 pins from games of 1090, 1031 and 985, while the Liederkranz club came through with a 2953, shooting a 1097 in the closing tilt.

A feature of the match was a 686 shot by Clyde Ritter of the Liederkranz. Ritter got off to a bad start, but blasted out a 266 in the middle game and finished with a 238. Bill Dennellan contributed a 247 and 623 to the Liederkranz total.

John Leppo was high for the Moose with a 646, which he opened with a 256. Sonny Meder added a 635, Farrell Hipp shot 641 and Art Hilborn scored a 609, featured by a 244 middle game.

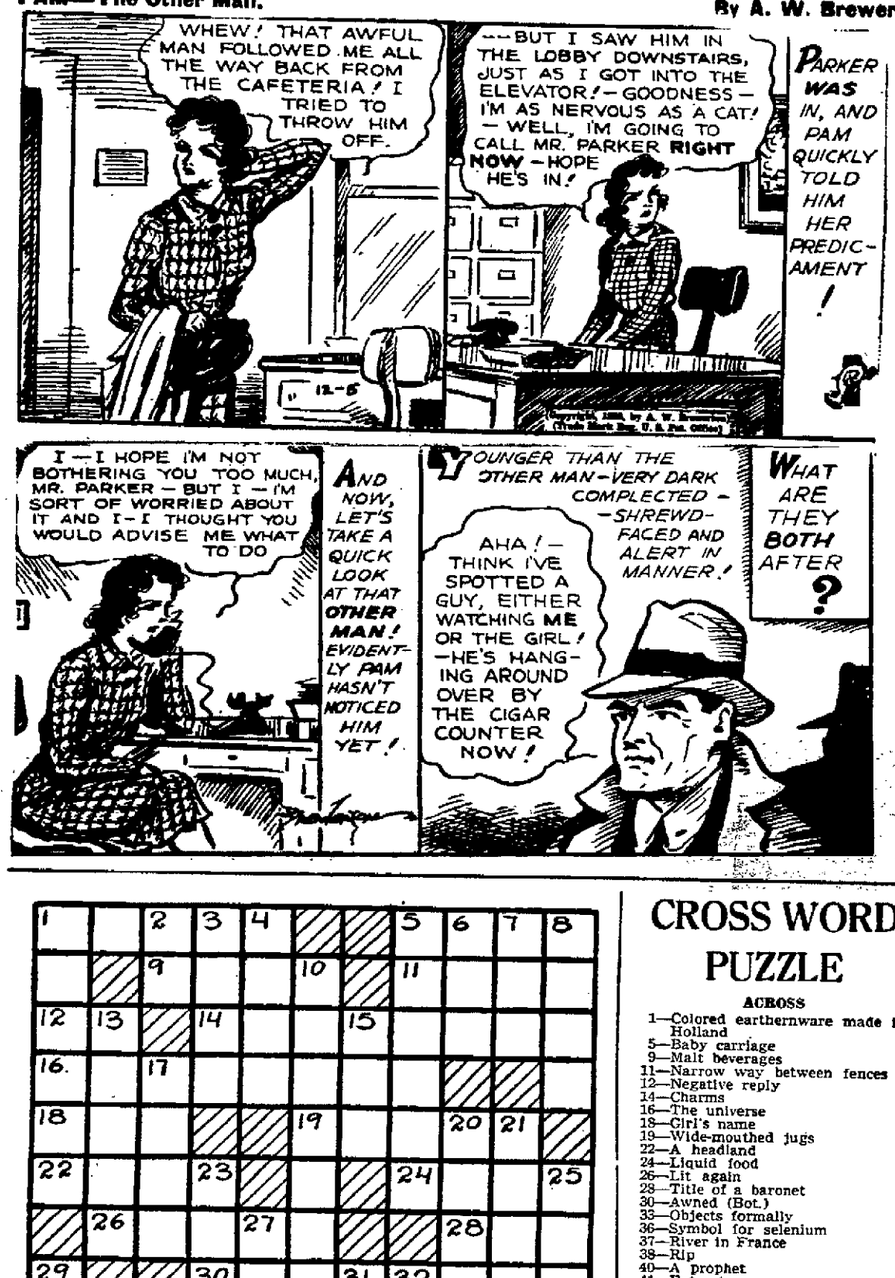
PAM—The Other Man. By A. W. Brewerton



WHEW! THAT AWFUL MAN FOLLOWED ME ALL THE WAY BACK FROM THE CAFETERIA! I TRIED TO THROW HIM OFF.
---BUT I SAW HIM IN THE LOBBY DOWNSTAIRS, JUST AS I GOT INTO THE ELEVATOR!—GOODNESS—I'M AS NERVOUS AS A CAT! —WELL, I'M GOING TO CALL MR. PARKER RIGHT NOW—HOPE HE'S IN!
PARKER WAS IN, AND PAM QUICKLY TOLD HIM HER PREDICAMENT!
I—I HOPE I'M NOT BOTHERING YOU TOO MUCH, MR. PARKER—BUT I—I'M SORT OF WORRIED ABOUT IT AND I—I THOUGHT YOU WOULD ADVISE ME WHAT TO DO
AND NOW, LET'S TAKE A QUICK LOOK AT THAT OTHER MAN! EVIDENTLY PAM HASN'T NOTICED HIM YET!
YOUNGER THAN THE OTHER MAN—VERY DARK COMPLECTED—SHREWD-FACED AND ALERT IN MANNER!
AHA!—I THINK I'VE SPOTTED A GUY, EITHER WATCHING ME OR THE GIRL!—HE'S HANGING AROUND OVER BY THE CIGAR COUNTER NOW!
WHAT ARE THEY BOTH AFTER?

SPOTTY FOREIGN SCENES RETARD STOCK MARKET

Steels, Motors Resume Decline in Slow Session; Commodities Mixed.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Steels and motors resumed their slow decline in today's stock market and many other issues showed little inclination for the rallying side.

Recovery proponents, however, still derived some encouragement from the lightness of offerings. While the ticker tape loafed throughout, losses ranged from fractions to a point or so near the second hour.

In arrears were U. S. Steel, Chrysler, General Motors, Montgomery Ward, Douglas Aircraft, Westinghouse, Du Pont, Anaconda, Kennecott, North American and U. S. Rubber.

Retarding factors were seen in the continuance of the spotty foreign picture, including the latest maritime strike in France and the Italian clamor for French-owned territory. In addition, obscurity of the business outlook over the early part of next year tended to dim speculative sentiment. Bonds and commodities were mixed.

Market analysts noted the survey of the magazine "Steel" which reported that activity in the steel field was continuing to moderate gradually.

3 HURT IN CITY AS OHIO TRAFFIC TAKES 17 LIVES

Boy Struck by Auto in Front of Church; Other 2 Suffer Minor Injuries.

Three Mansfielders, one of them a six-year-old schoolboy struck by an automobile this morning, suffered injuries over the week-end while 17 persons met death in automobile accidents on crowded Ohio highways.

Those hurt in Mansfield were Richard Touby, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Touby, 187 Wayne street; Emil Schultz, 499 Bowman street, and Miss Iris Imhoff of Shelby.

The Touby boy was hit by an automobile driven by Carl Bogner, 158 Gibson avenue at 8 a. m. today, police said, when he ran in front of the car on South Mulberry street while on his way to St. Peter's church.

Bogner took the child to the hospital where he was treated for a fractured leg and head injuries and then removed to his home.

Miss Imhoff received an arm injury when the car in which she was riding with William Stahl, 135 Hedges street, was struck by a machine driven by Mrs. George Gernhardt, 579 Sloan avenue, at the intersection of North Park and Main streets at 1:15 a. m. Sunday, police reported.

Schultz was treated for abrasions and bruises received when struck by an automobile driven by Bushnell Stoner, 185 Harker street, while crossing north Main street at Fifth, early Saturday evening, police said.

Blowout Kills 2.

In other accidents throughout the state Buck Wade, 19, driver, and Ralph Walsh, 26, were killed, and five were injured when a tire blowout sent an automobile plunging over a 110-foot embankment on U. S. route 40 near Lunnville. Only one of eight passengers, bowling team members from Zanesville, escaped injury in the crash.

Roalroad crossings were the scene of several fatal accidents. Francis Dome, 65, and his wife Nina, 60, of LaRue, were killed when their auto was struck by a train at Upper Sandusky; and Clarence Swazee, Cincinnati, died when his truck collided with another which had stopped at a crossing.

Milton R. Merritt, 70, of Columbus, was killed at Enterprise when his auto skidded and plunged 40 feet down an embankment, landing on railroad tracks.

Mrs. Elizabeth Webb, of Reynoldsburg, who was injured in the same accident, died early today in a Logan hospital.

Kenneth McKinley, 24, of New Richmond, died when his auto struck a street car loading platform at Cincinnati. John Case, 69, of North Baltimore, was injured fatally in an automobile crash, and two persons were killed in separate collisions near Circleville, Charles Congrove, 22, and Sanford Burris, 40.

County Picks Up Slight Profit At Foreclosure Sale

Sold at sheriff's sale Saturday, a Worthington township farm and 73 lots in Mansfield brought $3,710, or $1,752 more than the delinquent taxes for which they were sold.

Former Mansfield City Treasurer Dean A. Eckert, Mansfield, bid in 72 lots at the extreme western edge of the city for $2,325, about $100 less than the appraisal. The county held a judgment for $1,408 on the lots, which were owned by Wilmuth C. Borders of New York City. Eckert said he acted as an agent for another person.

John M. Hay, of near Newville, purchased a 68-acre farm in Worthington township for $1,200. The property was sold on a tax judgment for $411 against Mary Russell and others.

A lot on Maumee avenue, Mansfield, was bought by Albert Poth, Mansfield, for $185. It was sold on a tax judgment for $139 against Julia Arnold and others.

Funds which remain after taxes and court costs are paid will be distributed to the former owners of the properties

DEMANDS NEW PEACE THREAT?

Italy's Quarrel With France Menace to Friendship Pacts Following Munich.

immediately essential to their existence as world powers.

The Italian-French crisis is a vivid illustration of the complex and uncertain and—most of all—interdependent balance of power in the new Europe. The foundation is a combination of jealousies and need for mutual security in which holes are continually appearing. British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain has taken over the task of plugging these holes as they appear, knowing that if he should fail to fill any one of them in time, the whole works would fall.

Viewed from the broad background of European developments since the Czech crisis was ended at the Munich four-power conference, Italy's sudden and strange outburst against France is not out of keeping with Musolini's reputation as the smartest of dictators.

Less than a year ago, he was in a key position in Europe. He held the balance of power between rising Germany and the alarmed but still uncowed British-French combination. In the show-down Hitler took the risks, grabbed Austria and the Sudetenland and dominated the Berlin-Rome partnership. Mussolini gave him verbal support and came away empty handed.

The Fascist premier is now making his bid before it is too late to get Italy's share in the realignment of Europe. He has acted in his usual spectacular manner by a sweeping campaign for acquisition of such French territory as Tunisia, Corsica, Nice and Savoy. He could expect to gain such prizes only by a miracle. His real purposes are less spectacular.

It appears likely that three main factors prompted the Fascist leader:

1—By a powerful propaganda campaign for French territory to which Italy has no legal claim but in which she has an historical or minority interest, Mussolini might create favorable conditions under which to win lesser concessions from Paris such as granting belligerent rights to the Spanish insurgents or giving Italy a greater share in the Suez Canal management and profits.

2—By threatening to wreck Chamberlain's appeasement program, Mussolini might persuade Britain to bring pressure on France to grant these lesser concessions.

3—By creating a crisis on the eve of the signing of a new anti-war accord between Germany and France, Mussolini could test how far Hitler will go in backing up Italy's demands in the Mediterranean area.

FINDS METERS MADE FRIENDS

Mansfield Delegation Reports Zanesville 'Sold' on Plan, Nets $1,400 Monthly.

Friday to look over the machines in operation there.

The chief advantages of the metered plan of parking, the report points out, are:

1. Elimination of double parking.

2. More available parking space downtown.

3. Elimination of the downtown "parking hog," who used to park all day despite the city parking regulations.

4. Encouragement of efficient enforcement since violations are instantly seen.

The report points out that Zanesville, a city of 44,000, was selected for the survey by Mansfield officials because of its many characteristics common to those of Mansfield. These, the report says, are that it is of comparable size, both an industrial and agricultural community and appears to have a "marked similarity" in governmental problems.

The reports says that approximately 30 interviews were made by different members of the delegation and of that number, only two inquiries received negative responses.

The report stated that it had also been learned during the survey that while parking meters had met with "bitter opposition" at the time of installation, merchants on unmetered streets are now preparing to petition city council for installations of the machines in their areas.

It was also noted in the report that at noon in downtown Zanesville 60 per cent of the meter spaces were unoccupied while at 3:30 p. m. it was estimated that 75 per cent of the metered area was filled. At the same time, the report reads, unmetered streets were entirely occupied.

Members of the delegation who made the trip and presented their reports to Williams were Mayor Claude M. Hunter, Service-Safety Director Earl A. Nist, Councilman-at-Large James E Crum, head of council's special committee on parking meters, and C. N. Shultz of council's finance committee

Berni Vici Show At Ohio Plays To Capacity Crowds

Capacity crowds attended the opening day showing here yesterday at the Ohio theater of Count Berni Vici's revue, "Stars Over Broadway."

Presented by a company of 60, the revue is the largest, most lavishly produced, and most entertaining show to appear in Mansfield in over a year.

Appearing as one of the stars of the show is Schlepperman whose "Hello Stranger" on Jack Benny's Sunday night radio program was familiar to millions of Americans. Schlepperman surprised the audiences by brilliantly playing the violin.

Other high spots in the revue were Lane and Lane, two young men who did things in rope skipping that seemed almost impossible; Gene Gory and company, another violinist presenting a comedy act, and La Rue and Carel, adagio dancers. Also featured were Edith Tarler, Bill Guthrie, Deconti and Romaine, and Lenore O'Neil and Esther Harsh, at the electric organ and swing harpist, and Roberta, who introduced her startling star dance.

Musical accompaniment for the hour-long show was furnished by the Hollywood Ingenues, 16-piece all girl orchestra, who play 160 different musical instruments. In presenting three specialty numbers, the girls at various times all play harmonicas, accordions, banjos and guitars.

The entire revue is staged and directed by Berni Vici, whose revues are distinguished by their stage settings and scenic effects.

BENNETT, ANSWERING COUGHLIN, DEFENDS FORD'S STATEMENT

(By United Press)

DETROIT—Harry Bennett, personnel manager of the Ford Motor company, today defended the Henry Ford statement on Nazi persecution which Father Charles E. Coughlin assailed in his radio address yesterday.

Father Coughlin charged that Rabbi Leo M. Franklin of Temple Bethel wrote the statement, that it distorted Ford's comments, and that Ford actually did not believe there was widespread persecution of Jews in Germany.

Bennett said that the statement, which was published as "authorized" by Ford after a discussion by Dr. Franklin, was "absolutely correct." He said he read the statement before it was released and added that it was "reproduced exactly as my copy of it read."

In his discourse yesterday, Father Coughlin said that representatives of social justice had asked Bennett if the statement was authorized by Ford. He said Bennett issued a signed statement saying:

"The direct quotation carried in the paper is totally inaccurate and was not written by Mr. Ford but was composed by Rabbi Franklin."

Father Coughlin declared that the incident "was a gigantic attempt to put into the mouth of America's foremost manufacturer words he did not say."

Asked for comment on the priest's charges, Dr. Franklin said that "all replies to Father Coughlin must come from Ford officials."

Coughlin attacked the press generally in his address as failing to "face the issue which I presented" in two previous Sunday sermons.

"Would not a dispassionate judge be inclined to conclude that the effort on the part of my critics to assail my person and scoff at my presentation of facts—would he not conclude that this is related to their desire to protect communism?

"It appears that at present they are concerned with an attempt to stultify the statements I made about communism, by dismissing them with generic denunciations."

Coughlin asserted that Alexander Kerensky, leader of the first Russian revolution, was in error when he said recently that "no Jewish bankers financed the revolution of my government."

"I say," the priest said, "that according to reputable tetstimony it was financed by the late Jacob Schiff (of (Kuhn, Loeb and Company, New York)."

TESTIFY IN SUIT OVER FLOODING

Highway Engineer, Architect Called by Defense in Action for $2,500.

Boyd Wierman, resident state highway superintendent in Richland county, and Charles Conklin, Mansfield architect, were scheduled to testify for the defense today in the trial of a $2,500 damage and injunction suit in common pleas court.

The case, brought by John A. McCue, rear of 35 West First street, involves the alleged flooding of McCue's property by surface water from an adjoining lot owned by Carl H. Stander 475 Marion avenue, defendant in the suit.

The trial, which opened Friday was expected to end late today About a dozen witnesses have been called to testify.

McCue charged that Stander's lots were graded so as to cause the water to run into the basement of his home in times of heavy rain.

The case is before the county petit jury. Judge C. H Huston is presiding.

SOLICITOR TOLD TO LEAVE CITY

Mag Salesman Picked Up After Woman Files Complaint.

Cited by Deputy Sheriff Glenn Freeman Saturday on the complaint of Mrs. Homer Spriggins, Park avenue east road, a 17-year-old magazine solicitor was released and ordered out of the city after he returned 25 cents he had collected from Mrs. Spriggins.

She told officers she paid the youth the money, believing that he was a newspaper carrier, and called the sheriff when the youth left without giving her any change.

Freeman said he apprehended the solicitor just as he was getting into a car with New York license plates on Park avenue east.

said, was ready to tell the German foreign minister that France was not in a giving mood right now and that it was doubtful France would be so in the future.

All political parties were united on a refusal to give either Germany or Italy one scrap of "our colonies."

Protest Claims.

The union of Franco-Italian war veterans in Paris, the popular Italian union of the Mountauban district, the board of the French expansion center, linked with the government tourist office, and Corsican war veterans in Paris, Sunday, passed resolutions against the Italian claims to Tunisia and Corsica.

Daladier's internal problem, meanwhile, was the LeHavre maritime strike where the giant Normandie and a score of other liners have been tied up.

The use of troops and the requisition of seamen under military law, methods which crushed the general strike last week, were ineffective Sunday. There was instead, among dock workers, talk of extending the strike to other French ports.

Firemen Turn To Cooking, Scouts Dine on Rabbit

Firemen at engine house No. 4 on Newman street turned cooks Saturday night and served a rabbit supper to 35 members of Mansfield's only Rover scout troop.

The rover group is made up of former members of Boy Scout troop No. 4, which has its headquarters at the fire station.

Twelve rabbits were prepared for the dinner by Howard Miller, fireman at the station, and assistant scoutmaster of troop 4. The rabbits were bagged by the firemen and members of the rover group.

Mat Fritz, Martin Bayer, Fred Ammeter and Arthur McMullen, members of the troop 4 committee, were guests at the dinner. During a business meeting, short talks were given by Fritz, Ammeter and McMullen. Capt. Frank Stahl is leader of the rover group, and Capt. L. J. Steele, is scoutmaster of troop 4. Robert Grabosky and John Gross are assistant leaders of the rovers.

NEW ELECTRIC COFFEE MILL FOR HOME INTRODUCED IN MANSFIELD

A new electrcal appliance, the Kitchen-Aid Household Coffee mill will be introduced to Mansfield merchants at a meeting at 7:30 p. m. today at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

The appliance will be presented by a factory representative of the Hobart Manufacturing company of Troy. He will discuss the part the new mill plays in assuring the housewife of a better cup of coffee.

He points out that in a pound of coffee there is less than one-half tablespoon of caffeol which is the aroma and flavor oil for which coffee is purchased. Twenty-four hours after coffee has been ground 40 per cent of this oil is lost through evaporation.

The aroma and flavor oils are developed in the coffee bean during the roasting process with the hard outer shell of the bean holding these oils within until the coffee is ground.

As a result, the new household mill dates the coffee at the cup and saves the full flavor and aroma until the split second before it is used, the factory representative says.

With the mill on hand, only enough coffee for one meal is ground at a time, making sure that the flavor and aroma of the balance of the package is retained.

Co-operating with the Hobart Manufacturing company in the introduction of the new mill into Mansfield is Frank Bissman, head of the Bissman company.

FORD REVEALS PATENT POLICY TO COMMITTEE

Company Seeks to Encourage Inventors, Competition, Federal Group Told.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Edsel Ford told the federal monopoly committee today that the Ford Motor company's policy of encouraging inventers to manufacture their own inventions tended to encourage competition.

The slight, dark-haired motor company president testified that his firm pursued a virtually wide-open policy with regard to patents, licensing those it owns to other manufacturers when requested to do so, and aiding independent inventors in the production of their own devices, rather than trying itself to gain control of the inventions

Pays No Royalties.

Royalties for the use of patents are never paid by the Ford company, he testified, but "if a device is one we are interested in and wish to use, we in several instances, have encouraged the man to manufacture the article himself, or license it to another manufacturer, and we buy it.

"We have in several instances helped men to get started in manufacturing with financial and other aid," he said.

Ford officials, he said, "feel the patent should be worked" rather than obtained and held idle by a manufacturer who might eventually desire to use it.

Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold proposed that the monopoly committee find out how the anti-trust laws may be given a "constructive application" in cases where business combinations "may be found to be in public interests."

"Trust-busting," he said, must be regarded not as an end in itself but as "an instrument to remove obstacles to the full use of our (economic) capacity."

A dozen other representatives of the automobile industry have been advised by the committee to be ready to testify. Ford probably will be followed by William S. Knudsen, president of General Motors; K. T. Keller, president of the Chrysler corporation, and Alfred Reeves, general manager of the Automobile Manufacturers' association.

On completion of the automobile phase of the patents inquiry, expected to take about three days, the committee will begin a similar investigation into the glass container industry.

MONDAY, DECEMBER 5, 1938.

Nothing has happened to date that would indicate decreased need for erasers.

As nearly as can be learned, the original Santa Claus still makes his headquarters at the North Pole—beware of Washington imitations.

The difference between democratic and totalitarian governments is that we have our banditry at the bottom and they have theirs at the top.

The Urge to Steal.

AN ARTICLE in Saturday's News-Journal told of the constant watchfulness that is necessary in stores to avoid loss of merchandise by shoplifting.

The urge to steal is probably among the most widespread weaknesses of human nature, and is an almost invariable stepping stone toward some other form of criminal activity.

Recognition of the difference beween "mine and yours" is something that must be learned. Very young children have no appreciation of property rights. They must be taught to distinguish between what belongs to them and what belongs to someone else.

Where there is no home training along this line, or where associations are such as to provide bad examples, there is little reason to expect a child to realize that it is wrong to take anything that belongs to somebody else, no matter how small the value. Dishonesty applies to pennies, as well as dollars—and is most likely to start in a small way.

Professional shoplifters, who hope to profit by stealing articles of considerable value, are more readily explainable than the amateur variety, sometimes disclosed as highly respected persons who apparently cannot resist the urge to pick up some small thing of inconsequential value and drop it in a pocket or tuck it away in a handbag.

Instances of this sort, with strong probability of detection, arrest and resultant loss of reputation for honesty, are too common to be disregarded and when consideration is given to the type of persons involved it may be wondered if there are not many others who at least occasionally feel an urge to do something of the same sort but have sufficient will power and common sense to resist the temptation.

In any event it would be well, for persons feeling such an inclination, to think the whole thing through—including arrest, punishment and publicity—before indulging in shoplifting.

Warning In Utah Bus Tragedy.

AS LONG as railroad tracks and public highways intersect on the same level there will continue to be crashes of trains and motor vehicles.

Some way should be found, however, to avoid repetition of such a tragedy as occurred in Utah last week, in which more than a score of children were killed and as many more injured when a school bus was struck by a fast train.

The whole idea of railroad grade crossings was developed in the horse and buggy days, when trains were run at comparatively slow speed and ample time ordinarily given for horse-drawn vehicles to clear the crossing.

Present-day conditions are entirely different, with fast-moving automobiles on the highways and some modern trains attaining a speed of 100 miles an hour.

Ohio law, which makes it mandatory for buses to come to a full stop before crossing a railroad track, and also requires the driver to open the front door for visibility and proceed in low gear until the crossing is cleared, seems to make a train-bus crash practically impossible in this state.

There is the human element to consider, however, and an extreme of caution is essential at all times in order to guard against the various forms of danger produced by grade crossings.

Railroad grade crossings have no proper place in the present scheme of things. As fast as possible they should be eliminated. Meanwhile none should be permitted to remain without warning signals, gates, or some other form of safeguard.

The End of a Drinking Career

DOWN in the little town of Bainbridge, Ross county, there was a tragic occurrence a few days ago The body of 62-year-old Rev. Russell H. Bready was found on the sidewalk a couple of blocks from his parsonage home. He had been shot to death.

A little later his 29-year-old son was found in a drunken stupor at home He was taken into custody, questioned, and admitted he had killed his father.

He hadn't meant to kill his father, of course, and scarcely recalled the exact circumstances under which the act was committed.

He did remember, however, that his father had tried to sober him up by taking him for a walk, and that, under the circumstances, with a revolver in readiness, shooting had seemed the entirely proper thing to do.

Afterward the boy said: "You can search my story from beginning to end without finding anything good in it. Father was the original prohibitionist, and I have made a career of drinking."

It appears that in 1936 the young man was committed to the Toledo state hospital for alcoholic insanity. He is divorced and his former wife and a five-year-old daughter live in Cincinnati.

His mother died last July—after years of torturous grief which only the mother of an errant child can know. Now his father is also dead—relieved of the misery of ever again trying to "sober up" a drunken son and freed from the worry of what might happen next to his wayward boy.

The "right" to form the habit of drinking intoxicating liquor is a part of the "personal liberty" enjoyed by young people in this country. But occurrences such as this, and others that come to mind, tend to raise a question as to whether it is worth while. The first drink is never taken with the idea that it may eventually lead to drunkenness—and, possibly, murder.

Just as elderly women are learning to smoke cigarets somewhat nonchalantly they are told that college girls are turning to pipes.

Broadly speaking, the world seems to be settling down to a test of endurance between democracy and paranoia.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—So far as Nazi diplomats are concerned, the Pan-American conference at Lima will be a closed book.

The same is true of other non-American nations, also, but it is likely to be noticed this session mainly because so much of what will be done is likely to be associated in the public mind with Germany.

The matter of closed sessions previously has not been of particular importance. Almost every important nation in the world has had unofficial representatives nosing around. The general sessions and even the committee sessions have been open to them, as well as to the public. (That, of course, has not applied to strictly off-the-record get-togethers of diplomats with special axes to grind.)

This year the policy of closing important meetings to all but American republics is to be followed. There is no official resolution on the subject, but informed sources here say it will be that way.

So far as keeping the proceedings of the meetings secret, it probably won't be much of a success. It is a poor diplomat who can't find a leak among representatives of 21 American republics, especially since some are a bit coolish toward the U. S. at times.

Shy at Yardsticks.

THE U. S. government has "yardsticks" for determining the cost of producing power and building battleships, but when military agencies began mobilizing airplane builders for the big air program the manufacturers demanded assurance that no federal measure would be applied to them.

They received the assurance, privately, of course.

The plane manufacturers and the armed forces work very closely together, in any event, so it didn't involve any great concession. The factories work on secret military designs with as much industry and enthusiasm as the army and navy plane designers But when the talk centered around mass production of fighting planes, the factories wanted to be sure they would not be induced to make huge expansions and then be faced with competition from a flock of federal airplane mills.

What they remembered was that two years ago a senate committee headed by Senator Nye of North Dakota (who is a pacifist except with respect to Loyalist Spain) conducted an investigation into possibility of government manufacture of all munitions and planes. The committee brought in non-military engineers who testified that with an expenditure of $40,000,000 to $45,000,000 the government could build it own factorie to manufacture munitions and airplanes, as well as to become independent of private shipyards for battleship building—at least in peacetime.

* * *

Government Has One Plant.

NEITHER the army nor the navy attached a dime's worth of weight to the senatorial findings, but the plane manufacturers wanted assurance, just in case. They remembered that already the government has one airplane plant of its own. It manufactures nothing but naval training planes, but in a pinch it could be expanded into something bigger and more competitive.

Berle's Appeal For Peace In West

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, D. C.—While a pacifict in principal, I can't altogether agree with the seven American peace organizations which are attacking President Roosevelt's program for the defense of "Pan-American democracy."

Assistant Secretary of State Adolph A. Berle, just leaving for Lima, Peru, to attend the December conference of the New World countries, broadcast an appeal in behalf of the existing "peace of co-operation" throughout our two western hemispherical continents and near-by islands. As a long-time resident of Argentina and an occasional former visitor in most of the other Latin republics, as well as Canada, I thought he made a good job of it.

Not that I'm much afraid of an aviators' invasion from across the Atlantic or Pacific. A few flying ships might negotiate the flight from Europe or Asia and do some damage but it isn't conceivable that they could gain a foothold. So far as concerns that contingency, mentioned by Berle, I can't get up a temperature. The peace organizations doubtless are right in arguing that it's about as improbable as a Martian descent on our globe.

Saw It In South.

Nevertheless, I can't forget having seen English cannon balls embedded in the walls of old buildings in Buenos Aires, reminiscent of the day when a British fleet bombarded the Argentine capital. A really bilious situation inspired the Monroe Doctrine. It's of record that France actually broke into Mexico during our war of secession. Grover Cleveland served a regular ultimatum on the London government to prevent a John Bullish grab of Venezuela. And what did Spain do in Cuba?

No, that there is an overseas danger on this side of the water is no figment of the imagination.

It used to be principally an English danger. Then French. Now it's German and slightly Italian. Once it was Spanish, but that's a couple of generations ago or more.

I don't see Japan as any particular headache—not in the eastern Pacific. In Oriental waters maybe. That's a different issue.

But on the South American seacoast Germany could be a decided nuisance. Italy secondarily so. They're strong ashore, where they might become very formidable with off-coast encouragement.

Brazilian, Argentine and Uruguayan governments are middling dictatorial, but they're not exactly Nazi-istic or Fascistic. They have democratic traditions back of them and unquestionably can be relied on to stick by them, with such support as Uncle Sam's. True, they don't want Uncle Sam's theories jammed down their throats; it's got to be done diplomatically. All the same, they like Uncle Samuel d-[illegible]sively.

They Didn't—Once.

Once they didn't like it. They considered it Uncle Samuelly imperialistic. Now they think otherwise. They think it new worldly cohesive, and are not unfriendly to a sort of federal principle.

Years ago I heard Editor Jorge Mitre of the newspaper La Nacion (his grandfather was a president of the Argentine Republic) say, "The Monroe Doctrine is insulting to us, in a fashion, and yet it's protective of us; we can't afford to do without it."

The insultingness has been taken out of it.

Pacifists contend that unlimited defense provokes Offense.

I suppose that's true.

Still, too little defense invites aggression.

I've been stuck up on the street at night when I didn't have a gun. I never was stuck up when I did have one, bulging in my pocket.

Timely Editorial

Dangerous Farming.

Injuries, deaths are not uncommon as the power machines grow in popularity on the farm. To say that it is regrettable is small consolation to those who have themselves suffered, or who have lost loved ones. It is well worth while, however, to point out the dangers, that others may heed.

Railroad men are qualified to speak of safety first. Their program has cut the number of railroad worker accidents to a tenth the former volume. The worst danger of all, they report, is lack of respect for machinery and its ability to cause injury. This respect has been gained by a long campaign of meetings, discussion, publicity.

Farmers are at a disadvantage in that they are their own bosses in many cases and have no supervisor to enforce safety rules.

It is obviously the duty of leaders in agriculture to undertake some safety first program in this machine age. — Bloomington, Ill., Pantagraph.

Health Advice

Learning More About Hormones.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

BOTANISTS have followed the lead of the workers on the ductless glands and are doing some remarkable things with plant hormones.

They can speed up the growth and maturation of plants. They can increase the size of the roots or they can make the leaves and branches grow. They can take an old tree that is just about dying and by treatment make its roots begin to spread again, its branches to grow—a complete rejuvenation. And they do this with chemicals that apparently are not found, at least with any abundance, in the plant itself.

Plants, in fact, respond very much better to hormone treatment than animals. It was the dream of the endocrinologist of a few years ago that some such results as those abtained on the old tree would be possible for man.

No Real Success.

Attempts at rejuvenation with various ductless gland extracts and transplants have been made aplenty, but up to now no real success can be reported. A good many old men have reported that they felt younger after the treatment, and for a while they may have acted younger. But they did not look any younger, nor did their general experience serve to encourage those of us who are rapidly approaching the period of anecdotage.

It is a lovely Faust-like dream to wish to remain young and some day it may be accomplished, but the experience of Faust himself would rather incline one not to try to play pranks on nature. Nature seems very determined that nothing is going to stop the process of aging generation after generation and removing them from the scene.

The other problem of masculinity and femininity also falls into the category of the ductless glands. Here, perhaps, more success can be reported. There are many people who, though definitely masculine, have a feminine trend. Their voices are high, the skin smooth, the hair silky and the deposits of fat have a feminine distribution. The condition seems to be a combination of pituitary and adrenal hormones affecting the gonads. And much success results from the proper administration of these extracts.

Chemical In Nature.

Similarly, there are masculine women who probably have too much adrenal cortex tissue, as remarked in a previous article.

The question of sex seems to be quite chemical in nature. The phenomenon of free-martins is interesting in this respect. A cow may give birth to twin calves of opposite sex, each of which is normal. But occasionally the placentas are fused so that the blood streams of the two foetuses intermingle. In such cases the female shows considerable transformation toward the masculine form and remains sterile during life.

I read a report in the London Lancet that Mrs. Deansley and Parkes, of the National Institute for Medical Research, have conducted some experiments, putting transplants of active ovarian tissue under the skin of young male guinea pigs, thereby turning them into semi-females with enlargement of the mammary glands.

It is strange to think that so much of our personalities is merely the result of chemical tides, flowing back and forth. It is said that before long one will be able to buy mother love at the drug store.

A Farmer's Diary

Something for Nothing.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

A FARMER friend and I drove into town, to sell some produce and transact some business. It was early in the morning, and quite chilly. The first business man we met was starting a fire in the heavy iron stove near the center of his store.

"You farmers out there in the sticks must get up before the chickens," he greeted us. "I haven't had my breakfast yet."

"I got up around 4:30," admitted my neighbor, "and built the kitchen fire before I did my chores. Wondered if you didn't need some more potatoes, turnips and cabbage, pretty soon now."

"Yes, John, I can use a few bushels of each tomorrow morning.—but don't get here before seven, will you?"

I had been fingering five long yellow ears of extra good seed corn, which I saw upon the counter. The grocer noticed my interest, and exclaimed:

"Yes, isn't that something? A fellow north about two miles brought it in to show me. Gave me a bright idea—do you know how you farmers could get your seed corn free next spring?"

We said we didn't.

"Suppose you two should offer a prize of $100 for the best ten ears of seed corn produced in United States. I'll bet you'd get a carload of the finest corn in the country. You could pay out your $100 and then have plenty left for using your wits. I'd try it myself if I was a farmer and had to work as hard for money as you fellows do."

My neighbor looked at me. I looked at him. Each knew what the other was thinking.

"Nope—reckon not," said John then, slowly. "'Twouldn't be honest, and I doubt if it'd be legal. But I'd be ashamed to face the wife and kids, if I pulled a stunt like that."

"Legal—of course it would. You'd be givin' the prize, just like you'd advertised. The law couldn't touch you."

"Them that wants to can study out a way to beat the law," said John. "That's what's wrong with this country. . Too many folks are tryin' to get somethin' for nothin'—and a lot of 'em doin' it. If everybody'd try 'plyin' the Golden Rule to their business a farmer'd feel safer when he come to town." He turned to me. "Did you say something?"

I shook my head. "You said it better than I could," I told him. And he had.

Listen, World!

Those "Souls In Revolt."

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

SOMETHING ought to be done about these Souls in Revolt. Every since the war they've been increasing in number. Now they're swarming all over the place. There's at least one in every family and office gang. They practically support Uncle Sam's postal system.

And you never can tell. The most stodgy guy who comes around to sell you a new bath brush will haul off and confess he's one, if you give him a chance. In fact, you don't even need to give him a chance. He'll make his own. For if there's one thing above all others which a Soul in Revolt likes to do it's to describe his symptoms.

That's how most of us columnists manage to eat. By listening to S.I.R. symptoms. Every mail, in which they come by the dozen, the score, the hundreds. She ones. He ones. Young ones with pimples. Old ones with jowls. But all suffering. And all in revolt.

Now get me right. I'm not sneering. There's nothing I have more sympathy for, or understand better than a Soul in Revolt. I should. I've hung up some pretty good medals in that line myself. And still do.

When I put my heart right to it, I can stage a Psychic Seethe that makes Moscow's best bombings look like a kindergarten picnic. S'matter of fact, that's how I happened to accumulate the following valuable tips on the subject, which should be read at least once daily by every S.I.R. Foremost of which is—

S'pose you are a Soul in Revolt ....what of it? What makes you think that's front page news? So are 120,999,998 other American citizens. Sensitive? So are they. Highstrung? Dreamer and idealist? You've nothing on them! Lonely? Misunderstood? You ought to hear THEM tell it!

Am I kidding? I am not. I'm simply stating everybody's secret. We're ALL Souls in Revolt. Rich man, poor man, beggar man, thief, doctor, lawyer, Indian chief—and The Lady Friend—each and every one of us is lonely, wistful, rebellious at fate. And each one of us feels that this is a unique situation.

But it isn't. If we were all skinned and our souls laid out like so many dried onions, you couldn't tell one from another!

Which, if you're able to take it, is a very salutary fact. For there's the answer to all your own loneliness and bewilderment, your bitterness and despair. How often you've cried—"If I could only find somebody who could understand me!" You can — without turning a hand—find millions. Millions who are just as proud and high-strung, just as hurt and heart-hungry. Millions whose misery you might share—or comfort—and be comforted in turn by that companionship.

Then why don't you? Why don't we all? Why do we go our solitary way, hugging our sore soul, when we might pool 'em all and make a party of it? Ah—there's the catch! WE DON'T BECAUSE WE DON'T WANT TO!

What's the fun of being a Soul in Revolt if everybody else is like that too? How can we capitalize OUR sensitiveness if the other fellow is also a shrinking flower? Indeed, what becomes of all our grand act if we once admit that it's just part of the regular program?

So we don't admit it. We go on being Souls in Revolt. Revolt against what? Mostly — I suspect—against being found out.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Recently this department argued that the horses were a safer gamble than investing one's money on Broadway, and developments since then would seem to bear this out. It was our guess that of all the nightclubs in Manhattan only three made real money.

These three are in the 52nd-53rd street sector and seem to be in a position, if it is necessary, to withstand almost any sort of financial drought.

There may be others, of course, I haven't seen any ledgers. But the point I wish to make is that already this week two well-known clubs, clubs which enjoyed sensational success for a brief season, have had to close their door since last Saturday night. Another sad spectacle was that over-night budding which in 48 hours left an owner with nothing but grief for his pains. This club opened Friday night and on Monday the "for sale" sign was posted. During this brief tenure a total of nine customers passed through its portals. Yet a small fortune had been spent. It is now beyond recall.

* * *

BROADWAY has always been a dangerous thoroughfare, whether one considered it as a career or an investment. It is a street of "take a chance" and the odds against any gamble are overwhelming. It is cheap and tawdry, frowsy and lousy, and always overlaid with bunk. The best bet is to begin, if you must begin, with the fatalistic philosophy that you can't win anyway—and then, if by some weird chance you do come out on top, you are in a position to make the most of your good fortune. At least you won't be disillusioned. It is good to remember also that the less you know the more frequently you get a break, for in this stretch the dark horse noses his way home first just as often as the tried and practiced favorite.

* * *

TAKE the case of "Dodsworth." It was one of the genuinely successful ventures that make "Napoleons" of Broadway managers and add lustre to an author's name. Yet five managers turned it down because they thought it didn't have a chance to succeed.

"Abie's Irish Rose" ran five years after being editorially guillotined by the critics, but that was just one of those things where a bum play—and it was a bum play—enjoyed a benevolence which only the gods can explain.

Marjorie Rambeau is a talented actress but she read the manuscript of a certain W. Somerset Maugham play and turned it down because she thought it had not one chance in 30 to succeed on Broadway. It fell eventually into the lap of an actress named Jeanne Eagles, and you know the rest. That play was "Rain."

Then there was Horace Liveright who wanted to produce a mystery play but the road trials were so disheartening that he decided not to bring his play into New York. The play was "Dracula," and he tried to peddle it for $5,000. There being no takers, he finally, in a spirt of take-a-chance, changed his mind, and brought it to Broadway. "Dracula" ran a year on Broadway, five years on the road, and earned considerably more than a million dollars.

SCOUTS SET UP MACHINERY FOR OWN ELECTION

Area-Wide Balloting Planned for Jan. 3 and 31 to Name Community 'Officials.'

Twenty-three scouts will be selected in the Mansfield election to occupy city offices for one day, Feb. 8, as a part of the local Scout week activities.

Elections will be held in every city and town in the area, and scouts will be chosen to occupy every major office in the local government, Floyd Dent, area executive said.

Parties in this year's election are the Federalists and the Nationalists. Supplies sent to the scoutmasters today include the petitions all candidates must sign and the registration forms for each troop. Petitions must be signed by at least five scouts, and the deadline for registering all troops is Dec. 19, Dent said.

Any Scout Eligible.

Any registered scout in the area is eligible to run for nomination in his own community. Only seven offices carry other requirements. Scouts running for mayor, service-safety director, and municipal judge must either have the Eagle or Life rank, those running for fire chief must have a fireman's merit badge, those running for police chief must have a safety merit badge; candidates for sanitary superintendent must have a public health merit badge, and those seeking the office of health officer must have a first aid merit badge.

Scouts also will be elected to fill the posts of council president, city solicitor, clerk of council, city auditor, water works superintendent city engineer, street superintendent, six ward councilmen, and three councilmen-at-large.

Candidates must return their signed petitions to their scoutmasters In the primaries and the election, each troop will represent a precinct, and each will have its own election officials

Area officials and scoutmasters will make up the scout's board of elections.

Finds 'True' Love By Taking Test On Lie Detector

TULSA, Okla —(AP)—If this becomes popular, campus romances may boom the lie detector manufacturing business

A freshman girl went to psychology professor at the University of Tulsa who had demonstrated the effectiveness of a lie detector.

"I have two boys friends, Bob and Joe," she told him, "and I can't decide between them. Would the lie detector tell me which is my true love and which is the false?"

"Well," said the professor, "it would if we could get both boys here so you could look at them while we made the test."

"I can't do that but I'll bring their pictures," said the freshman and she dashed home after them.

Then she took the experimental seat, placed two fingers on the electrodes and the test began.

She looked at Bob's picture. The needle s'ot to 25. Six was the highest the needle could do when she looked at Joe. Four more tries brought identical results.

"You aren't going to tell Joe about it, are you?" asked the professor.

"Of course," said the girl "I'm going to tell them both But I'll tell each one that he won."

Mansfield Lady Tells How Vendol Relieved Her Pains

Delighted When Vendol Proved to Be Exactly What Was Needed After all Other Medicines Tried, Had Failed.

THE VENDOL MAN
At Central Drug Store

You have read the experiences of many grateful local people who have been benefitted by Vendol, but you never read a more enthusiastic or convincing one than that of Mrs. Catherine Heilman, highly respected housewife living at 273 S. Carpenter Rd., Mansfield, who gave her statement to the Vendol Man in the Central Drug Store as follows:

"Since taking Vendol for a few weeks, it has solved a problem that has bothered me for years. That problem was constipation and sluggish kidney action. At times I was miserable. I developed such a soreness and stiffness in my muscles that my housework and everything else became a burden. My back seemed to ache all the time, and there were such pains in my arms and legs that many nights my sleep was broken.

"To make matters worse, my nerves were so jittery that the least little thing upset me. I often had bilious attacks, and there were times when I bent over all the blood seemed to rush to my head, making me feel as though I might fall.

"I was really worried, for I had tried different medicines without much benefit. But, because Vendol was spoken of so highly by home town people, I decided to try it. Almost from the start, I knew I had discovered the right medicine. Before a month's threatment was finished, I was no longer troubled in the slightest by constipation, nor the old aching misery in my muscles. Those bilious attacks never bother me any more, my nerves have become relaxed, and I get restful sleep every night. This has given me more strength and energy to do my work, and I just feel so much better that I am glad to give my experience with Vendol so that it may help others to get the same relief."

Why delay? Come to the Central Drug Store, Cor. Main and 4th Sts., and ask for the Vendol Man. Let him courteously explain all about this grand medicine, and tell you just how it can help you, too. There is no charge, so come in today.

Important Tricks for Gravy Making

By RUTH CHAMBERS

An important part of many meat dishes is the gravy. Meat juices go into the gravy, and these juices are rich in flavor. Therefore gravy should be made with care to do justice to this delicious part of the meat.

One of the reasons why pot-roasts rank high in popularity is the fine gravy they provide. This is true of other meats cooked by braising. The reason is two-fold. These meats come from the part of the animal which contains most muscle tissues, and these portions, though less tender than some others, are rich in flavor. The other reason is that the long, slow cooking in moist heat brings out a larger amount of juice.

Good gravy may be made from the juice of roasts, but it is the gravy of pot-roasts which merits special attention.

Here is the basic recipe for brown of pan gravy, to be used for either roasts or pot-roasts.

Brown or Pan Gravy.

Drain off excess fat, retaining 2 tablespoons for each cup of gravy desired. Add 2 tablespoons of flour for each 2 tablespoons of fat. Blend the fat and the flour and stir until it becomes a rich brown, being careful not to let it burn. As the flour will not burn after the liquid is added, be sure it is well browned first. Gradually add 1 cup cold liquid for each 2 tablespoons of flour. Boiling liquid may be used, but this is more difficult to make as the flour cooks before the gravy can be stirred smooth Stir constantly until the mixture boils. Season with salt and pepper.

Milk, meat or vegetable stock or water can be used as the liquid.

This Gravy Is Tops.

The liquid of braised meat, rich in meat juice, makes excellent gravy. Sometimes it is only necessary to thicken this liquid with flour smoothed in a little cold water. Then it is boiled long enough to cook the flour. Sometimes the flour in which the meat is browned provides very nearly sufficient thickening. Of course the flavors added by the meat give variety and richness to the gravy

With roasts and pot-roasts, the gravy is served separately. In some braised dishes, for instance Swiss steak, the liquid may be thickened and served over meat.

When vegetables are cooked with a pot-roast, the meat and vegetables are removed and the liquid in the kettle is thickened for gravy.

Here are recipes for a variety of meat dishes in which the gravy is unusually good.

Pot-Roast With Vegetables

Dredge beef pot-roast with flour and brown well on all sides in hot lard Season with salt and pepper Add a small amount of hot water, about ½ cup. Cover closely and let cook slowly until done, about 3 hours. As the liquid cooks away add more, a little at a time, as needed. Each time liquid cooks away, the pot-roast becomes a little browner and the gravy just that much more delicious, so add only a little liquid at a time

Add potatoes and carrots to kettle just long enough before serving to cook them.

Remove meat and vegetables from kettle, and thicken the liquid for gravy.

Christmas Stocking Lots of Fun

Inexpensive gifts, some candy and nuts, and a tangerine in the toe—that's what makes it fun to unload the Christmas stocking.

Small Gifts, Inexpensive Items Add Holiday Joy For Young, Old

By MRS ALEXANDER GEORGE
(AP Feature Service Writer)

With expectant squeals the youngsters tumble out of bed early Christmas and dash to see what Santa has left them. That exciting hour is Christmas at its old-fashioned best.

The glittering tree, for all its splendor, is just a background for the thrills of exploring those bulging stockings that were hung up so empty and sagging the night before So it's well worth while for mother and father to take special pains in filling those stockings.

What goes in them? Well usually some trinkets, candies, nuts in the shells, a rosy red apple and a golden orange or tangerine and probably one real "special" present.

Wise mothers have kept their eyes peeled on shopping trips well in advance for little novelties that will make good stocking presents. She has kept the grown-ups in mind as well as the youngsters, getting jokes or knicknacks connected with a hobby. Shops are loaded with inexpensive gifts of that kind.

Scraps of the colored wrapping paper and ribbons left from doing up the big presents should be saved for the stocking gifts. For unwrapping is such fun it's a good idea to tie up the things for the stockings, too.

Wrapping the gifts in surprise shapes is fun. For instance, a handkerchief, rolled and done up in a red paper and with a cord inserted in one end as a fuse becomes a firecracker. Paper or cardboard nuts animals and unique boxes are really just containers for hair ribbons, neck ties, cuff links, small notebooks and other gadgets.

How shall each stocking be known? A cooky name-card is just the thing. Cut cooky dough into two-by-three-inch rectangles, and prick a hole to hold a cord. When cookies are baked, insert cards and write names with frosting to tag each stocking.

Animal and flower cookies always appeal to children. They are easily fashioned from rolled out cooky dough and cut out with cutter or a paper pattern. Gingerbread men and jaunty little figures fashioned from gum drops are intriguing creations to see peeping from the top of each stocking.

The gingerbread family can be elaborately dressed with raisins, cloves and piped frostings, the gum-drop children with coats, trousers and hats made of different shaped and colored gum drops.

A festoon of glistening cooky stars and wreaths hanging across the top of each stocking or used as a fireplace decoration is in keeping with the holiday. Cut out cookies in star shapes from light and dark dough. When baked spread with colored sugars and cocoanut.

And remember it would not be Christmas without candy canes—hanging over the edge of the stocking or along the mantelpiece.

Kitchen Hints

Carmelized sweetened condensed milk makes a delicious pudding served "as is" or combined with other foods. To caramelize the milk, boil it in the can three hours in water to cover. You can chill it in refrigerator for serving that day or you can store the boiled can for future use.

Never let baked custard, custard pies or puddings stand in a warm room after they have cooled. Store them in a cold place. This is very important. As soon as pumpkin pies are cool, place them in a cold place, too.

Children enjoy helping with dinner festivities for Thanksgiving so let them polish the fruits and vegetables, make vegetable candle holders and decorate the table. This saves mother and stimulates home interest.

If you want to make an inexpensive but effective lamp shade for the hobby or recreation room here is a suggestion: Cover heavy wrapping paper with linseed oil. When well soaked in, pleat the shade and fit it over a wire frame, holding it in place with pins or paper clips.

Steamed puddings can be made days before serving, stored in a dry place and merely reheated when wanted. To reheat them, steam them in covered molds for ty-five minutes in water to cover or put them in the upper part of double-boiler, tightly covered, for thirty-minutes.

To slice figs, dates and prunes for cooking, cut them with scissors dipped frequently in warm water. This helps avoid stickiness and makes even-edged pieces. For fruit puddings, it often is advisable to cover cut fruit with warm water so it will mix better with the other ingredients.

Cover chilled diced fruits or berries with strained honey and serve as appetizer or dessert. Add a few drops of lemon juice, too, for improved flavor.

Use a soft eraser to remove marks made by tin-foil.

It is usually advisable not to store cookies or cakes in the same container with bread. The odors and flavors are likely to mingle. However, if you wrap a loaf cake or cookies in several thicknesses of heavy waxed paper you will have no trouble.

An effective way to turn fruits and vegetables into candlesticks for the holiday table decorations is to ream a hole in them with an apple corer. This makes a well defined hole in which the candle can be fitted snugly.

Autos That Burn Wood to Operate Make Test Runs

MOSCOW—(INS)—A caravan of 12 motor vehicles using wood or coal fuel instead of petrol has just completed a 6,800-mile trial run through the Soviet Union, according to Tass, the Soviet news agency.

Organized by the Soviet government, the tour was designed to test the running qualities of new Soviet gas-generated motors.

In 53 days the caravan twice crossed the Urals, traversed the salt marhes of Kazakhstan, the Ukrainian steppes and the forests of White Russia.

Running costs proved much lower, it is stated, than with liquid fuel. All five types of gas car taking part in the run were able to climb the steepest grades.

CHAPTER 14

WHEN quick-on-the-trigger salesmen such as T. J. Sanders are caught with nothing to say, that's news. It means one of two things they are ill, or they are in love Mr. Sanders was not ill.

He certainly did not, as a rule, stand gawking at pretty girls like a yokel, either. He had never been known to blush, or to poke his finger awkardly at girls and mumble, "You—you—y-you—"

But he was doing all of these things now.

He had expected Mrs Sara Sue Davis, personally and incorporated, to be a somewhat stoutish widow of perhaps 52, wearing a benign smile, wearing a little too much face paint, and having a definitely officious, managerial manner. The Mrs. Davis who came to him, therefore, was glorified by contrast.

She had greeted him politely, and waited. Now the moment's wait threatened to stretch into a century. Not that a century is too long a time to stare at Sara Sue; nothing of that sort. But, well, when a young business man calls on a young business woman on business, somebody just has to start talking sometime. Sara Sue perceived that she would have to go a step further.

"Won't you sit down?" She invited "If there is something I can do for you—"

The century began to wane, bringing T J. out of his trance

"Oh. Oh, sure," he said "Gosh!"

"Am I, then, so shocking?" Sara Sue smiled

. . . No, ma'am' Ha ha' I must be acting like a freshman The fact is, I was quite surprised Fact is—well—I wondered if you would want Nightmare? That's it Nightmare!" He grasped at Nightmare somewhat desperately, and in obvious relief

"Nightmare?"

"Yes'm. My bulldog Don't you remember? At the game? I had him dressed like an owl"

"Oh, yes. Surely' I recognize you now. You sat just behind mother and me, didn't you. Mr Sanders He was a nice dog But do you mean now—?"

"Yes, ma'am I've got to get rid of him. I mean, circumstances are such that I shall be unable to keep him for the next year or so, and I remembered you got along with him and seemed to like him (Mr Sanders' poise, and tongue, had returned) so if you want him, he's yours."

* * *

Now the fact is, T. J. Sanders valued Nightmare somewhat more than he did his own soul. As a matter of comparative statistics, T. J.'s books would show that he gave $25 to churches, community chest and other charities last year, but that he planked down a $50 check for Nightmare as a pup. Sometimes Nightmare even slept with him

But remember that Mr. Sanders had been suddenly faced with a girl who, although unknown, had haunted him for days. When you come abruptly face to face with love like that, you do unaccountable things He just simply had to have some logical excuse for calling on Sara Sue Davis like that. He couldn't blurt out news of his infatuation, he couldn't get fresh with this girl, to this girl he absolutely must appear gentlemanly and refined, he felt. What, therefore, had they in common? What conceivable mission could have brought him logically to her private office?

Frantically searching his mind for an answer as she stood before him, he had hit on poor Nightmare And before he realized it he had given Nightmare away!

Sara Sue was delighted T. J. brought the ugly bulldog from his car and presented him in the flesh. Strangely, this did not hurt his (T J's) feelings, either Nor for that matter did it appear to hurt Nightmare's He (Nightmare) licked Sara Sue's hand in apparent happiness and contentment Mr. Sanders didn't, but could have done the same thing

T J's financial mind was reasoning that the world is full of good bulldogs, but contains only One Girl If Nightmare had cost him $500 instead of $50, the introduction he was getting to this girl was worth it He stooped to pet old Nightmare with genuine affection There was much conversation. A deal of talk anent diets, habits, worms, collars, leashes, puppies, pedigrees, tricks—Nightmare could stand on two legs, do somersaults, roll over, play dead, wear spectacles, and hold a cigaret in his ferocious looking mouth. He could, and had on one occasion, torn an aggressive, ill-tempered police dog to shreds, but despite his appearance and ability, Nightmare distinctly was not a mean bully Few bulldogs are, for that matter. Sara Sue thought him grand T. J. thought her grand. T J. gave deep thought to the matter of asking for a date with Sara Sue

* * *

Normally he wouldn't have wasted any thought on such a detail. He would simply have flung out, "I'm coming by with a can of paint Thursday night, kid; some of the town needs re-painting" That or some similarly cocky remark. Usually he found he had an affirmative answer But he sensed that he must take another tack with Mrs. Davis, Inc

"I just felt that you liked good dogs, Mrs Davis," T J. began, fishing for an opening "So I wanted you to have Nightmare. It is much better that he be with someone who appreciates him, I said to myself yesterday By the way, have you even seen the Gulfport kennels? Nightmare was sired there."

"No. No, I haven't"

"Well, say, you may think I'm—did Calculus tell you who I was, ma'am? I've been around Rice here for three years I'm representative of the Columbian Sporting Goods corporation. Here's my card. But what I was going to say was, that I'd like to show you those kennels Just so you could discuss Nightmare's points and background and all with them, if you wanted to. He's really a well-bred dog. I could—I could drive you out there and back in half an hour some afternoon."

"I'd love it," said Sara Sue, petting Nightmare.

"I'll drop by sometime when it's convenient for you," T. J beamed. He decided to advance with caution. An initial victory should be nursed a while.

He departed in what he felt was her good graces

Everything was rosy until after supper.

* * *

Nightmare made himself quite at home Cleopatra didn't like his looks, but when Sara Sue put him through his tricks, Cleo, the cook, decided he was worthy, and so fed him Nightmare yawned prodigiously, curled up by the living room fire and went to sleep. Such domesticity would perhaps have been undisturbed, even with the clatter and laughing of collegians who droped in, if Mr. Robert Towne hadn't been among them.

Big booming Bob, never meek, came in noisily as usual Not only was his voice dominant, but it was recognized Nightmare besturred himself and came forward eagerly to greet an old friend, one who had frequently petted him.

"Say, isn't this—whose dog?" Bob asked Sara Sue

"Mine. Don't you just love him?"

"Yours? Where'd you get him?"

"Must I tell you everything, Mr. Towne?"

Unlike many other brands, it comes to you as nature made it, in the whole bean . . . with all its grand, natural flavor sealed in Not until you buy Birdie Coffee do you grind it. Today, we have rushed to each independent grocer a plentiful stock of BIRDIE COFFEE IN THE BEAN . . . this is to meet the demand of the consumer who will grind their own coffee to split-second fresnness' Remember: a cup of coffee can be no better than the blend from which it is made In Birdie Coffee you obtain the choice of the coffee crop, from Sumatra, from Brazil, from Bogoto, from Colombia, where the finest coffees are grown We blend, age and carefully roast these beans . . . and then they're rushed in the famular green and red package to your grocer.

NOW YOU CAN BUY BIRDIE COFFEE AS NATURE MADE IT . . . IN THE WHOLE BEAN!

Birdie Coffee Ground Each Meal In KitchenAid Gives You the Ultimate In Coffee Taste!

NEW KITCHENAID ELECTRIC COFFEE MILL WILL GRIND BIRDIE COFFEE TO SPLIT-SECOND FRESHNESS.

The flavor and fragrance of Birdie Coffee depends on delicate vegetable oils, which are highly evaporative Once this coffee is ground, these oils begin to escape very rapidly. That is why coffee should be ground IMMEDIATELY before making—for rich full bodied quality.

NATURE'S SEAL

During the roasting process, these delicate oils are developed and SEALED in the coffee bean Many unsuccessful attempts have been made to provide a substitute for this seal. In packed, pre-ground coffee, no matter in what manner of container, much of this flavor is lost.

The sooner coffee is used after grinding, the better. Even an hour makes a big difference FRESHLY ROASTED means little unless it is freshly ground . . . unless nature's seal is left unbroken until you are ready to prepare your coffee. The new KitchenAid Coffee Mill, now on display in Mansfield, virtually grinds the coffee into your coffee pot Instant fresh and all the flavor goes into your cup.

GRIND IT TO SUIT YOUR OWN METHOD OF MAKING

Each type of coffee pot requires a different grade of grind, for best results No one grind will SUIT all coffee makers But now, with a combination of BIRDIE COFFEE IN THE BEAN AND KITCHENAID you can have coffee just right!

TRY A POUND OF BIRDIE COFFEE TODAY—NOTICE THE EXCELLENT DIFFERENCE.—With each KitchenAid Coffee Mill sold The Bissman Co., will present the purchaser a full pound of Birdie Coffee in the bean.

MAPS CHANGES IN FAIR BOARD REGULATIONS

Agricultural Society Renames 6 Directors, Sets Stage for Annual Meeting.

Members of the Richland County Agricultural society, which sponsors the county fair, re-elected six directors by acclamation and heard proposals for four changes in the organization's constitution at a meeting Saturday afternoon at the courthouse.

The session set the stage for the annual fair board meeting early in January when officers will be elected and plans formulated for the 1939 fair.

The group heard a tentative financial report of the 1938 fair, indicating that the board would at least "break even" on the fair and may have a small balance when all bills are paid.

Directors chosen again by the society for three-year terms were H. H. Wolf, Franklin township; A. W. Strater, Mansfield; R. D. Hale, Mansfield; J. J. Cline, Bloominggrove township; Morell Enzor, Butler township, and Howard Johnson, Bellville. Wolf is president of the fair board and Strater is treasurer.

Proposed Changes.

The society's constitutional committee proposed that: 1. Not more than one award be made to an exhibitor at the fair who has no competition in his class, with the judges to determine the extent of the award.

2. No exhibitor be permitted to remove an animal from the fairgrounds on the last day of the fair without the consent of the president and the department superintendent.

3. Exhibitors be required to file entries not later than the Thursday night preceding the fair, along with certified check or money order for entry fee, and that entries shall be recognized in the order in which they are received.

4. The agricultural society shall provide expense money for directors who attend the annual fair officials' meeting in Columbus in January. In the past, only the president's expenses have been paid.

Members of the constitutional committee explained that the first three proposals would eliminate confusion in listing and arranging entries at the fair, and would save money for the society. The board will act on the proposed amendments at its annual meeting, probably Jan. 7.

An incomplete financial report submitted by C. C. Hout, secretary, showed that the fair board has received $11,093 in the past fiscal year and spent $10,209, leaving a balance of $884, with several bills still unpaid.

Hout said the board probably would have a small balance to apply on its debt of approximately $4,500 which has piled up in recent years when the fair lost money. The board received $3,500 from the county commissioners and the state department of agriculture this year, the report showed.

TAX REFLECTS BUSINESS GAINS

County's Receipts From Sales Levy $2,300 Ahead of Same Week in 1937.

Sales tax receipts in Richland county continued to show an upward trend during the week ending Nov. 19, with collections totaling $10,713 as against $9,292 for the preceding week and $8,471 for the same week last year.

A decided drop during the early months of the year, however, reduced total collections to approximately $370,000 so far this year as compared with about $515,000 in the same period of 1937.

Representing retail sales in the state, Ohio's sales tax receipts to Nov. 19 this year were $32,118,558, a decline of about $12,000,000 from the $43,200,000 collected to the same date last year.

Although every county in the state reported a decline in collections for this year under 1937, nearly half of them, or 38 of the 88, showed an increase for the week ending Nov. 19 over the same week last year, State Treasurer Clarence Knisley reported.
